SENATOR LA FOLLETTE DEAD

TODAY

One Chinese, One European.
Two Ladies Die.
A 5-Mile Bookshelf.
50,000,000 He Didn't Own.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The Chinese learn from our civilization, and much to the annoyance of Europeans they now demand the life of one European for every native Chinese slain by Europeans.

Western nations, with their own courts established on Chinese soil, their special diplomatic and other quarters, have been using their own judgment in China.

When they thought things were going badly, they sent soldiers and machine guns ashore, and when it was over, it was often necessary to pick up a few dead Chinese.

The atmosphere will change and perhaps clear up, if the Chinese live up to their statement that every Chinaman shot down must have his European mate to accompany him to the happy hunting grounds.

One lady, tired of life, killed herself in New York and left all her money to her first husband, whom she had divorced. She cut off her husband without a penny, her last letter saying how kind the first husband had been to her.

Warning to wives as their eyes turn toward Paris sometimes you are very well off and do not realize it.

Woman's strange nature, too deep for man, appears in the last wishes of another American woman, a suicide in Paris. The lady, unmarried, left orders to have a large bouquet of roses put in her arms as she lay dead, ordered an ebony coffin with silver handles, and wished to be buried, "in my rose colored satin gown, and to have on my earrings and bracelets and silver purse; I want my hair pinned up and arranged gracefully."

The rashly importunate lady who had lost all taste for her American compatriots, wrote: "I want no American doctors, nor any Americans, for that matter, to touch me," and she forbade all religious service at her funeral.

That's the strange part. If you don't believe you are going to rise again, exactly as you went to sleep in death, what's the use of putting on your rose-colored satin gown and your earrings? You don't dress for the worms.

Nobody understands the female heart, not even a Frenchman.

MONDELL URGES TAX SLASHING

Suggests Reduction of Rate on Great Incomes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 18.—Another blow in the government's campaign to mould public opinion favorable to a slashing reduction of high taxes on great incomes was delivered here today by Frank W. Mondell, of the United States war finance corporation, in an address to the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association.

Mondell expressed confidence in the ability of congress to bring about tax reform that will relieve American business from its present difficulties, asked that the legislative establishment consider carefully the views of those who have made careful studies of this economic question.

"I think congress will make the necessary reductions, but it is entitled to be assured of support in bringing about this reform," Mondell said.

"Thanks to the administration's policy of economy we shall be able to further reduce the sum total of federal taxes.

"We should wipe out the remaining nuisance taxes born of the war.

"We should, if possible, bring about some reduction of the corporation taxes."

La Follette had been in failing health since the close of his campaign in November, but was taken seriously ill last Friday, and all members of his family were summoned here.

They were at his bedside when the end came at 1:25 p. m. today.

Kin at His Bedside.

La Follette's condition took a turn for the worse yesterday, but his physician, Dr. C. C. Marbury, did not despair of his ultimate recovery. This morning, however, after a good night, the senator suddenly became gravely ill and Dr. S. M. Randolph, a heart specialist, was called into consultation.

Mrs. La Follette, the widow, and Robert M. La Follette Jr., who have been with the senator here since he was confined to bed three weeks ago. GIRL, 17, FACES PRISON TERM FOR HOMICIDE

COLLAPSES AGAIN

Convicted of Killing Admirer in New York Home.

NEW YORK, June 18. — Dorothy Perkins, 17-year old telephone operator, convicted of first degree manslaughter for the murder of Tommy Templeton, her admirer, faced a 10 to 20-year prison sentence as she sobbed in her cell today in Jefferson Market prison.

The blonde, bobbed-haired Dorothy, the youngest woman ever tried for murder in New York state, was reported to be in a highly nervous condition, following her series of collapses during the trial.

When the jury returned their verdict shortly before midnight, Dorothy fainted in the arms of her lawyer. She was carried from the court room, crying:

"Mamma, Mamma, oh, Mamma!"

Four of the jurors favored a first degree murder verdict, it was learned. No juror advocated acquittal, but one suggested a recommendation for mercy based on the youth of the accused which was rejected by the other jurors.

Judge Condemns Crime.

"There have been too many shootings by women," said Judge McIntyre in discharging the jury. "This verdict may stop women from shooting men in the future."

The jury returned their verdict a few minutes before midnight last night after deliberating two hours and 41 minutes.

"Dotty didn't get a fair trial," Mrs. Rudolph Perkins, mother of Dorothy, declared today. "We're just poor people, so we didn't have a chance."

Wheeling and Lake Erie Abandons 14 Trains in Ohio

49-DAY TIE-UP OF CARPENTERS UNCHANGED AS STRIKERS MEET

EXPLAIN STAND

Statement Shows High Wage Scale in Effect Here.

Today, forty-ninth day of the tieup, witnessed no change in the strike of 115 East Liverpool district carpenters who walked out on May 21, when contractors refused to grant their demand for a wage increase from $10 to $11 a day.

A meeting of the strikers is scheduled to be held tonight, but whether steps looking toward a settlement of the differences shall be taken is problematical, it is said today.

Contractors as well as carpenters are standing pat. The employers today reiterated their willingness to renew the old scale or to arbitrate the wage dispute, with the understanding that the present $10 a day scale shall be the minimum award.

Contractors' Statement.

A representative of the contractors issued the following statement in explanation of the attitude of the employers:

"A study of wage scales in the building trades in American cities affords some interesting light on the present situation in East Liverpool, where carpenters are striking for an increase from the present rate of $1.25 an hour, or $10.000 a day, to $1.37½ an hour, an increase of $1.00 a day. The maintenance of the present scale has not been in question, contractors being perfectly willing to continue paying at this rate; in fact, the contractors, in repeatedly proferring arbitration of the dispute, have consistently agreed that in event of arbitration it should be on the basis of mutual agreement that no award should be considered of less than $10, the present scale.

"East Liverpool carpenters have been receiving, on the present scale, $2.00 a day more than carpenters in Akron. At the same rate of $1.00 an hour, carpenters in Dayton and Columbus, too, are paid $2.00 a day less than those in East Liverpool.

Comparison of Wage Scales.

"Carpenters here, it also appears, are better paid than those in Chicago, where the scale varies from $1.15 to $1.25, as compared to a flat hourly rate of $1.25 here. Philadelphia carpenters are working for $1.12½ an hour, and those in Boston for $1.10, both considerably less than East Liverpool carpenters receive. These figures are of especial interest in view of the government records showing that Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia are three of the most expensive cities in this country in which to live."

KIWANIS HEARS T. O. TRESCOTT

Ideals of Organization Discussed by Ravenna School Chief.

The Kiwanis ideal of service was lauded by Prof. T. O. Trescott, superintendent of schools at Ravenna, and president of the Ravenna Kiwanis club at the noon meeting of the local club in the Larkin's annex, Market street, today.

About 50 members and their guests attended the meeting. A book of gasoline coupons, furnished by Frank Jones, of the Ohio Valley Oil company, constituted the attendance prize and was awarded to Ross Tisher, wharfmaster.

Two communications were read by Secretary H. D. Hoffman relative to the resolution recently adopted by the club, requesting the repairs of the paving in front of the St. Clair avenue entrance to Riverview cemetery. One communication was from the traction company and the other from the Riverview Cemetery association.

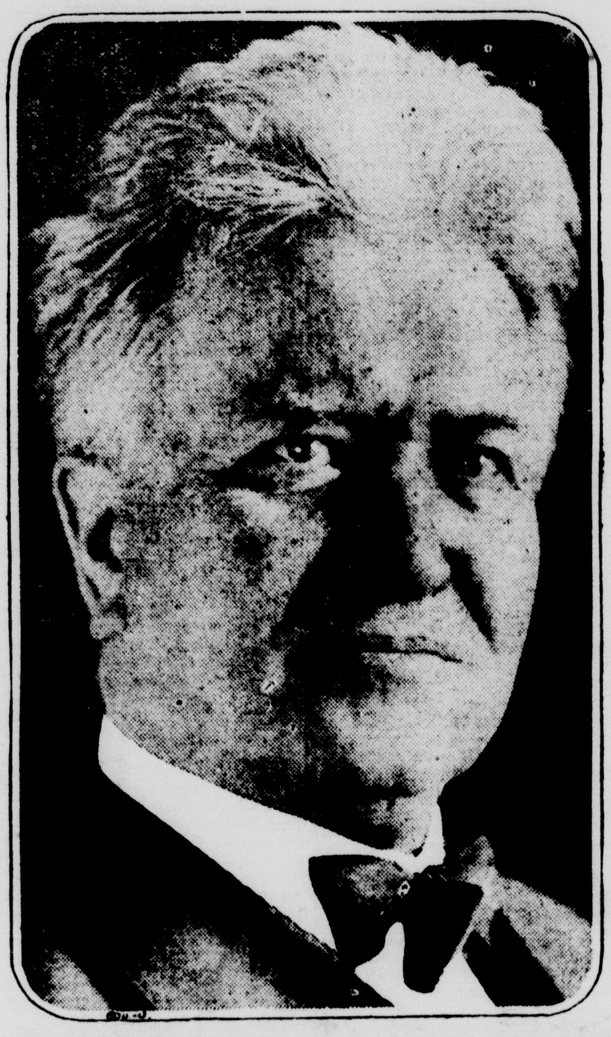

Fred George was appointed delegate from the local club to attend a meeting to be held at Lisbon, Thursday, June 25, when the proposition of inoculating dairy herds will be discussed. A committee was named to draw up resolutions of respect for the late Thomas B. Anderson, a member of the club.

Prof Trescott voiced a plea of tolerance in his address.

Enroute from Galveston, Texas, to Portland, Maine, three disabled ex-service men, traveling in an automobile, stopped off in East Liverpool for a few hours today.

The car, which was parked on Market street near Fifth street, was decorated with automobile license plates, motor club emblems, metal plates of various cities and towns through which they have passed, old style guns and other weapons, convention badges and similar articles. The automobile attracted considerable attention.

The members of the party are C. J. Watson, Flint, Mich., owner of the machine; Thomas McCoy, New York, and Lon Gibson of Charlestone, W. Va. Expenses during the trip are paid through the sale of postcards bearing a picture of the car.

The tourists sleep in the machine and eat their meals along the roadside. They have been on the road for about two months and plan to reach their destination in time for a Fourth of July celebration. They came to this city from Steubenville. Their next stop will be Youngstown.

DR. L. W. TUCKER CLOSES WEEK'S MEET TONIGHT

Bible Chart Lecturer at First U. P. Church.

MORALS TOPIC

Discusses Part Satan is Playing in World.

The part that Satan is and has been playing in the world was emphasized by Dr. Leon W. Tucker, of New York city in his second talk on the book of Revelations during his present engagement at the First Baptist church, Fifth street, last evening.

Announcement was made that the final appearance of Dr. Tucker and his party will be at the First United Presbyterian church so that added seating capacity may be procured.

Particularly pertinent to parents and young people, it was stated, will be the last discourse of Dr Tucker. His subject will engross present day morals and their relation to the home. His theme will be "The Social and Sex Situation in The Light of God."

Another appealing musical program preceded and followed the speaking of Dr. Tucker. Miss Allie May Schmidt sang, by request, "The Holy City" and "In the Land Where the Flowers Never Fade." Both were accompanied by harp and violin.

Miss Evelyn McKee Coons charmed her hearers again with a harp number, and Miss Cora Bell Young equally appealed with a lullaby from Hanes on the violin. All three were given generous applause.

The invocation was made by Dr.

MOYER BROTHERS' CARRY BUSINESS BLOCK FIGHT TO HIGHER COURT

Seek Reversal of Common Pleas Judge in Application Against Mrs. May Wasby.

Moyer Brothers, Fifth street, dry goods firm, has appealed the decision of the common pleas court at Lisbon in dismissing the temporary injunction, restraining Mrs. May Wasby from erecting a one-story business building on the site of the three-story structure razed by fire February 22, last.

The case is being heard before the Columbiana county appellate court, meeting in Cleveland today. The plaintiff is represented by Lones, Hill & Davidson, while Brookes & Thompson are counsel for the defendant.

The temporary injunction, prohibiting Mrs. Wasby from erecting a one-story building, was granted at Lisbon early in May. About two weeks ago Mrs. Wasby's attorneys filed an action to have the injunction dismissed which Judge J. G. Moore granted.

The Moyer Brothers claim they have a lease on the property and that a one-story structure, as the owner contemplates, will not be large enough to meet their requirements.

STATE RESTS ITS CASE AGAINST JOSIAH KIRBY IN CLEVELAND COURT

Defense Counsel Asks Court to Direct Verdict of Not Guilty on Charges of Larceny.

CLEVELAND, June 18.—The State of Ohio rested its case against Josiah Kirby today and Chief Defense Attorney Luther Day immediately requested that Judge Fred H. Wolf, Wauseon, O., direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Day declared in his argument that the State had failed to prove a single violation of the law on Kirby's part. "There is no evidence in the record to warrant the submission of this case to a jury," declared Day.

After Walter Meals, former appellate judge, another of Kirby's attorneys, makes his plea for a directed verdict this afternoon, Judge Wolf will take the matter under advisement and make a ruling Friday. There will not be any evidence put on by the defense until the ruling is made and the jury will be excused in the mean time.

Day cited case after case and many

TWO TOLEDOANS BURNED AS 100 ARE SAVED IN HOSPITAL FIRE

Panic is Threatened Among Insane Patients as Nurses Act.

LOSS IS $3,500

Physician and Wife are Victims of Blaze.

TOLEDO, June 18.—Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Hill were burned, the latter seriously, and the lives of 100 patients were endangered in a fire in the women's ward at the Toledo state hospital here today.

The fire originated in the living room of Dr. Hill's quarters, and was caused by a short circuit in a radio set.

Mrs. Hill was severely burned. Her hair was burned close to her head when her night clothes caught fire. Her condition is serious. Dr. Hill is suffering from burns on the hands and arms received while extinguishing the blaze which threatened his wife.

A panic threatened among the insane patients and nurses removed 35 on the second floor to places of safety in cottages on the grounds.

Fast work by the fire department confined the fire to the therapy ward. The loss was estimated at $3,500.

COPS MAY GET TEAR GAS CLUB

Demonstration at City Hall Causes Hurried Exit.

The purchase of a police club, containing tear gas bombs, said to be used in many of the large cities in breaking up riots and forcing the surrender of fugitives is being considered here today following a demonstration at the city hall.

Before nearly a dozen of city officials, including Mayor Brown, Chief of Police McDermott, members of city council and other citizens, Joseph Williams, Jr., a representative of the Federal Laboratories Sales company, of Pittsburgh, gave a demonstration in the use of the club. Within a few minutes after the club had been wielded, the air in the mayor's office was filled with a gas, causing witnesses to hurry down-stairs and out into the air to escape being blinded.

The chemicals, commonly known as tear gas, affects the eyes, and within less than a minute, causes total blindness. The gas, however, leaves no permanent ill effects.

Williams gave another demonstration of the use of the gas at the Edwards hotel, to a group of spectators, last evening. He plans to stage a similar exhibition today in one of the banks, if permission is given.

Police Hold Auto Until James Lamp Pays Liquor Fine

The police today are holding an automobile, belonging to James Lamp, of Dixonville, pending the payment of a $300 fine, assessed against him by Mayor Charles Brown last evening, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of having utensils used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in his possession.

Lamp was arrested at his home by Patrolman Norman McFarland. A still and a small quantity of intoxicating liquors were confiscated. Lamp, in entering a plea of guilty, declared that he was heavily in debt and was making and selling liquor to pay his bills.

A charge of illegally possessing intoxicating liquors has been filed against Roy Fullmer, of Second street. Special Officer Dawson and Turnkey William Cline were called to Fullmer's home by his wife, last night, upon a complaint that he was raising a disturbance. Before the police arrived Fullmer fled to Midland. A half pint of liquor was found in the house.

The car, which was parked on Market street near Fifth street, was decorated with automobile license plates, motor club emblems, metal plates of various cities and towns through which they have passed, old style guns and other weapons, convention badges and similar articles. The automobile attracted considerable attention.

The members of the party are C. J. Watson, Flint, Mich., owner of the machine; Thomas McCoy, New York, and Lon Gibson of Charlestone, W. Va. Expenses during the trip are paid through the sale of postcards bearing a picture of the car.

The tourists sleep in the machine and eat their meals along the roadside. They have been on the road for about two months and plan to reach their destination in time for a Fourth of July celebration. They came to this city from Steubenville. Their next stop will be Youngstown.

DR. L. W. TUCKER CLOSES WEEK'S MEET TONIGHT

Bible Chart Lecturer at First U. P. Church.

MORALS TOPIC

Discusses Part Satan is Playing in World.

The part that Satan is and has been playing in the world was emphasized by Dr. Leon W. Tucker, of New York city in his second talk on the book of Revelations during his present engagement at the First Baptist church, Fifth street, last evening.

Announcement was made that the final appearance of Dr. Tucker and his party will be at the First United Presbyterian church so that added seating capacity may be procured.

Particularly pertinent to parents and young people, it was stated, will be the last discourse of Dr Tucker. His subject will engross present day morals and their relation to the home. His theme will be "The Social and Sex Situation in The Light of God."

Another appealing musical program preceded and followed the speaking of Dr. Tucker. Miss Allie May Schmidt sang, by request, "The Holy City" and "In the Land Where the Flowers Never Fade." Both were accompanied by harp and violin.

Miss Evelyn McKee Coons charmed her hearers again with a harp number, and Miss Cora Bell Young equally appealed with a lullaby from Hanes on the violin. All three were given generous applause.

The invocation was made by Dr.

Panic is Threatened Among Insane Patients as Nurses Act.

LOSS IS $3,500

Physician and Wife are Victims of Blaze.

TOLEDO, June 18.—Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Hill were burned, the latter seriously, and the lives of 100 patients were endangered in a fire in the women's ward at the Toledo state hospital here today.

The fire originated in the living room of Dr. Hill's quarters, and was caused by a short circuit in a radio set.

Mrs. Hill was severely burned. Her hair was burned close to her head when her night clothes caught fire. Her condition is serious. Dr. Hill is suffering from burns on the hands and arms received while extinguishing the blaze which threatened his wife.

A panic threatened among the insane patients and nurses removed 35 on the second floor to places of safety in cottages on the grounds.

Fast work by the fire department confined the fire to the therapy ward. The loss was estimated at $3,500.

COPS MAY GET TEAR GAS CLUB

Demonstration at City Hall Causes Hurried Exit.

The purchase of a police club, containing tear gas bombs, said to be used in many of the large cities in breaking up riots and forcing the surrender of fugitives is being considered here today following a demonstration at the city hall.

Before nearly a dozen of city officials, including Mayor Brown, Chief of Police McDermott, members of city council and other citizens, Joseph Williams, Jr., a representative of the Federal Laboratories Sales company, of Pittsburgh, gave a demonstration in the use of the club. Within a few minutes after the club had been wielded, the air in the mayor's office was filled with a gas, causing witnesses to hurry down-stairs and out into the air to escape being blinded.

The chemicals, commonly known as tear gas, affects the eyes, and within less than a minute, causes total blindness. The gas, however, leaves no permanent ill effects.

Williams gave another demonstration of the use of the gas at the Edwards hotel, to a group of spectators, last evening. He plans to stage a similar exhibition today in one of the banks, if permission is given.

Police Hold Auto Until James Lamp Pays Liquor Fine

The police today are holding an automobile, belonging to James Lamp, of Dixonville, pending the payment of a $300 fine, assessed against him by Mayor Charles Brown last evening, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of having utensils used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in his possession.

Lamp was arrested at his home by Patrolman Norman McFarland. A still and a small quantity of intoxicating liquors were confiscated. Lamp, in entering a plea of guilty, declared that he was heavily in debt and was making and selling liquor to pay his bills.

A charge of illegally possessing intoxicating liquors has been filed against Roy Fullmer, of Second street. Special Officer Dawson and Turnkey William Cline were called to Fullmer's home by his wife, last night, upon a complaint that he was raising a disturbance. Before the police arrived Fullmer fled to Midland. A half pint of liquor was found in the house.

STATE RESTS ITS CASE AGAINST JOSIAH KIRBY IN CLEVELAND COURT

CLEVELAND, June 18.—The State of Ohio rested its case against Josiah Kirby today and Chief Defense Attorney Luther Day immediately requested that Judge Fred H. Wolf, Wauseon, O., direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Day declared in his argument that the State had failed to prove a single violation of the law on Kirby's part. "There is no evidence in the record to warrant the submission of this case to a jury," declared Day.

After Walter Meals, former appellate judge, another of Kirby's attorneys, makes his plea for a directed verdict this afternoon, Judge Wolf will take the matter under advisement and make a ruling Friday. There will not be any evidence put on by the defense until the ruling is made and the jury will be excused in the mean time.

Day cited case after case and many

MOYER BROTHERS' CARRY BUSINESS BLOCK FIGHT TO HIGHER COURT

Seek Reversal of Common Pleas Judge in Application Against Mrs. May Wasby.

Moyer Brothers, Fifth street, dry goods firm, has appealed the decision of the common pleas court at Lisbon in dismissing the temporary injunction, restraining Mrs. May Wasby from erecting a one-story business building on the site of the three-story structure razed by fire February 22, last.

The case is being heard before the Columbiana county appellate court, meeting in Cleveland today. The plaintiff is represented by Lones, Hill & Davidson, while Brookes & Thompson are counsel for the defendant.

The temporary injunction, prohibiting Mrs. Wasby from erecting a one-story building, was granted at Lisbon early in May. About two weeks ago Mrs. Wasby's attorneys filed an action to have the injunction dismissed which Judge J. G. Moore granted.

The Moyer Brothers claim they have a lease on the property and that a one-story structure, as the owner contemplates, will not be large enough to meet their requirements.

DR. C. C. FAIMAN HITS SHEPHERD AS WITNESS IN "GERM MURDER"

STAR ON STAND

Accused Hears University Officer Tell Damaging Story.

CHICAGO, June 18.—"I had some tubes of bacteria. Shepherd asked me if he could have them and I told him he could—I could get more. They didn't cost me anything. He asked me if I knew of any instance of bacteria being used for criminal purposes.

William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock, sat in the criminal court today and heard, in these words, the most damaging testimony scored against him.

Dr. Charles C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences, star of the prosecution, was on the stand, called as a court witness.

Corroborates Salesman

Corroborating the testimony of John P. Marchand, a salesman for his school, Faiman, beads of perspiration appearing on his forehead, told of receiving a letter from Shepherd, and of sending Marchand to see him Then he told of subsequent dealings with Shepherd.

Shepherd, he said, came to the university laboratory asking further information concerning courses in bacteriology He was shown apparatus and bacteria cultures, Faiman testified, and appeared very much interested.

"He (Shepherd) told me he had an adopted son, that he was guardian of the boy, and I told him it was nice for him as he did not have any of his own," Faiman declared. "He said the boy was worth a lot of money—probably one or two million, and he told me his name was Billy. I asked him how old he was and he said he was becoming of age. I told him it would put him in sort of a bad fix to lose him when he became of age.

Asked About Laxatives.

"I asked him if he arranged any will for him and he said that he had arranged his will—that he could do practically as he wanted with it, I told him it was very fortunate for him to have an adopted son, especially one with a lot of money.

"About the middle of October, Shepherd called me up and made an appointment. He told me he had his plans all arranged to prepare typhoid cultures and put them in water.

"I told him that was about the only way one could anywhere be sure of an infection."

Faiman said Shepherd asked him about laxatives and how they affected a patient, and Faiman said he told him they would affect the patient adversely.

Promised $100,000, He Says.

Later, Faiman said, Shepherd came out to the university and asked if Faiman kept any records. "I told him only letter files and pointed them out to him. He went to the files and took out the letter. I said I ought to be getting something out of this and he gave me $50 for the letter. Then I said we ought to get down to some definite arrangements. I said I thought I ought to get a fourth, and he said it was too much. Then he agreed on a hundred thousand dollars."

A couple of weeks later, Faiman said, Shepherd called him up and made an appointment. At the meeting Shepherd said Billy had taken sick and said he had given Billy the cathartic.

Faiman said he did not hear from Shepherd again until after Billy was buried and then Shepherd called up to say he was leaving the city for a few weeks.

"Then things began to come out in the paper and he came back from the south," said Faiman. "He called me up and I told him I was getting scared. He said there was nothing to worry about."

While a court room crowded almost to suffocation waited patiently in expectation of "fireworks," counsel for the defense argued before Judge Lynch to forestall Faiman being called by the court.

Judge Lynch finally ruled that Faiman would be called as a court witness and the court would conduct the direct examination. Judge questioned Faiman about his transaction with Shepherd.

miles of war books will be condensed by historical writers, 20 years from now?

The entire five miles of books might be boiled down to this:

"In 1914 the Germans, foolishly living under the rule of a kaiser, allowed themselves to be led into a war. It seemed disastrous at first, but the losses were soon more than made up by the prosperity of the German republic."

Investigators for the United States government alleged that an able young man named Livermore sold 50,000,000 bushels of wheat that he didn't own.

This selling, "dumping wheat on the market," of course, knocked down the price. It was just one gamble among many for the plunger selling short. It was something different for the farmers.

It is said that the government will take "firm regulatory measures." That's pleasing news, if those measures amount to anything, and they probably won't.

If a man can sell 50,000,000 bushels of something he doesn't own, never saw, and makes perhaps $25,000,000 in a few days, he has more influence sometimes than the farmer that has raised 1,000 bushels of wheat by the sweat of his brow.

The Mexican question agitates this country, and bothered the stock speculators for a while yesterday. There is no need for agitation. We are not going to have any quarrel with the Mexicans. The people of the United States have only the friendliest feeling for Mexico.

Americans feel that they are fortunate in having good neighbors, north and south, and they don't intend to do anything to jeopardize that situation.

Those that resent Calles' rejoinder to the United States note should bear in mind that what Calles said to us is about what we should have said to Calles had we received a note of complaint such as he received.

It isn't a question about the justness of the complaint. A nation don't like to be criticised.

German scientists, led by a woman, Dr. Ida Tacke, have discovered two more "elements," leaving only three to be discovered. A great scientist, Mendeleef, demonstrated long ago that 95 elements make up all the substances that we see on earth, in the air, under the earth and under the waters and everything that the spectroscope reveals in the universe around us.

Everything in this entire universe, from the giant sun, Aldabaran, to the claw of a field mouse, is made of a mixture of only "95 different elements," and that is amazing.

The moderation league reports that drinking "in the south" has increased 120 per cent in 34 cities under prohibition.

Why pick out the south? There is no more drinking there than elsewhere. In any part of the United States you can drink as much as you like. The only trouble is that what you drink in the way of whisky is a little worse poison than it used to be.

Dr. L. W. Tucker

Lecture on Satan.

"Despite the fact that Satan is the author of death, disease, sorrow, sin, demolition, degeneration and degeneracy, I never speak carelessly or flippantly of him," asserted Dr. Tucker. "For once he was an exalted personage before his pride moved him to err and later fall."

"Only the Lord Himself can attend to Satan," he said. "He saw him following his rebellion 'fall from heaven as lightning' to the earth and here become the source of all iniquity and moral disorder."

Dr. Tucker declared the experience of Satan succinctly proved the truthfulness of the assertion "he that exalteth himself shall be abased."

That the Revelations indicate the coming to earth of "the beast"—the man of sin and "the false prophet"—the ecclesiastical apostasy was, he affirmed, certain.

In a discussion of the world flux and the part taken in it by Premier Mussolini, of Italy, Dr. Tucker, who witnessed the entrance into Rome of the Fascisti on the memorable day that preceded their taking over the government, paid the Italian people a tribute.

"The men of Italy are the handsomest in all Europe, their women and children the most beautiful and their mothers the most wonderful anywhere. Do not misjudge Italians. They are a great race. They are a superior minded people. There is a Galli-Curci in every Italian theater and a Caruso on every street corner."

"But despite all this there are sore spots in Rome which situation is equaled elsewhere as evidence by the declaration recently in the French chamber of deputies that 'Europe is standing on feet of clay.' The prophet Dariel said the same thing. All these things are but a part of the great judgment which John in his Revelations maintained would come to pass."

Dr. Tucker averred that vast hordes of demons inhabit sections immediately above the earth and they are organized. Twice, he said, Jesus Christ passed through them, the first time to come to earth in this humiliation and the second time in His exaltation as He asscended to heaven.

All the false doctrines so prominent at this time he declared to be in line with the attempt to envelop the world in ignorance and sin.

That the Son of man is also due, he unhesitatingly declared, and "He will judge the world in righteousness and equity," he said.

Dr. Tucker again made use of a large chart by which he pointed out the connecting truths of the last volume in the holy canonical Scriptures.

tee on manufacturers, Senator La Follette sponsored the resolution which led to the famous senate oil investigations, which have culminated in criminal indictments against Ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, Harry F Sinclair and E. L Doheny. He was also the ranking Republican member of the committees on interstate commerce and finance and could have been the chairman of either had it not been for his refusal to "play ball" with the Republican leaders in the senate.

The climax of La Follette's career came a year ago when he definitely broke with the regular Republican organization, established a new independent party with the support of the Conference for Progressive Political Action and the American Federation of Labor. He waged a hard campaign but fell before the combined attack of the Republican and Democrats and succeeded in carrying no territory except his home state of Wisconsin.

Tentative plans of Mrs. La Follette and her sons were that simple funeral services would be held here tomorrow or Saturday and that the body would then be taken to Madison, Wis., for burial.

Fighting Independent.

Few men have left a deeper imprint upon the politics and government of their time than Robert Marion La Follette—a Republican by name, but a fiery, fighting independent by preference.

The nickname of "Fighting Bob" La Follette was no idle jest—it was real, as any number of Old Guard Republicans will ruefully testify.

La Follette's whole life, from the time he was a spindle-shanked, somewhat sickly boy in Wisconsin, until the time he expired in the corpulency of old age, was one of unceasing struggle for the things in which he believed. Many people did not agree with him or his policies, but few, if any, ever questioned his sincerity for the loyalty which he gave without stint to the cause of progressivism in American politics.

Varied Career.

He had a career that was unparalleled in the politics of his time. He tasted the rarified atmosphere of the upper heights of popular favor, but he also drank deep of the bitter dregs of disfavor. So bitter were they that at one time, when the nation was being swept with successive waves of war hysteria, a resolution of expulsion was introduced in the senate because he had dared to speak his mind about the war. The resolution came to naught, and in his later life, La Follette always felt that vindication had been his.

La Follette was born in Primrose township, Dane county, Wisconsin, on June 14, 1855. It may have been that La Follette's hatred of war was engendered in his boyhood, for in his adolescence the horrors of the Civil war became deeply impressed upon his mind.

La Follette came of good American stock—Indiana and Kentucky settlers, who had braved the wilderness and had fought in the conflict between the states.

Born on Farm.

Like so many other prominent men of his time, he was born on a farm and acquired an early knowledge with and sympathy for the men who wrest their living from the soil. He always had wanted to be a lawyer, and so at 24, after a hard struggle, he graduated from the University of Wisconsin. A year later, in 1880, he was admitted to the bar and hung out his shingle in his home community of Madison, Wis. At that time, as he relates in his autobiography, he had a mother and a sister to support and was himself engaged to be married.

La Follette's entry into politics came that same year. He was a thin, small youth of 25, who had a distinguished record in the university for oratory, but little else. He cast his eye on the district attorneyship of Dane county, in which is located the university.

La Follette described his entry into politics humorously in his book. "A Personal Narrative of Personal Experiences." Having decided he would like to be district attorney, he proceeded to go after the position by personally soliciting the support of the farmers, students and people of the community. At that time, he confesses in his book, the principal attraction was the $800 yearly salary the job paid.

The boss of Dane county at that particular time was one Colonel E. W. Keyes, the postmaster at Madison. For some time, La Follette relates, Colonel Keyes suffered him to continue his canvass of the voters, seeking support for his candidacy, and then Keyes summoned him to the postoffice.

Defied Boss.

"He told me I was wasting my time," said La Follette. "He also told me the name of the next District Attorney of Dane County—and his name was not La Follette."

He made the youngster mad, it appeared, and from that time on La Follette was insurgent. La Follette continued his canvass among the Swedes and Norwegians he knew so well, with the result that on election day he made an astonishing run and beat the machine by the narrow margin of 23 votes. He held the office for four years and then decided he wanted a broader field and came to congress—a stripling of 30 years.

He served in congress for three terms and then went back to the State, "disgusted," as he himself phrased it, by the manner in which things were done in Washington. He thought he could accomplish more good in the State than in the vast machinery of congress and national life, where he was only a small cog.

For ten years then La Follette practiced law and directed the progressive movement in his State—out of office. Then, in 1901, he ran for the governorship and was elected. He served in all thre terms, making a progressive record that gave birth to the much-mooted "Wisconsin idea,' so talked of some years ago. Railroad reform was his particular hobby, and he made the roads of his State sweat blood.

He resigned from the governorship finally and in 1905 came to the United States Senate, where he has been continually in the forefront of progressive fights.

Always Candidate.

From 1908 on, La Follette was always a candidate for the precidency, and always he received Wisconsin's vote in the national conventions.

La Follette had real aspirations in 1908. He had a remarkable record as a progressive governor of Wisconsin. Roosevelt was retiring and La Follette did not like the idea of T. R. nominating his own successor—which he did in the person of William Howard Taft. He swallowed his disappointment, however, and struggled on through the very conservative years of the Taft administration, alway holding aloft the torchlight of Progressivism.

Again in 1912, the year of the Republican split, he felt he had a chance. But the powers in his party were fearful of him—he was too progressive—and again he was disappointed.

There are enemies of La Follette who say that these successive disappointments were responsible for much of La Follette's so-called radicalism. But his friends deny this with considerable warmth and point to his undeviating progressive record of a lifetime as refutation of the charge that he was a Progressive because he was resentful.

Opposed War.

Came the war and the hysteria that accompanied it. La Follette was opposed to it and he threw all his magnificent ability into the cause of keeping the United States out of it. He was one of the few who voted against the passage of the war resolution. He was one of Woodrow Wilson's "wilful men."

But he stuck grimly to his ideals and his beliefs. He never opposed successful prosecution of the war, once America was in it, but he believed our entrance was a mistake, and he said so, boldly, defiantly and whenever the opportunity offered.

The incident that brought about the expulsion resolution in the senate was a speech at St. Paul, which he delivered without manuscript. He spoke about the war, and he claimed to his dying day that his speech was misquoted. At any rate some of his colleagues in the senate, notably Kellogg (R.), of Minnesota, whose election he had opposed, who had watched with growing anger La Follette's criticism of America's war effort, sponsored the movement to expel him from the senate for disloyalty to the nation.

Aided by Penrose.

For a time it looked like his enemies might accomplish their purpose, but in the end it was Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who saved him.

The Democrats, smarting under his attacks on Wilson, were for ousting him forthwith. Some of his Republican enemies sympathized with them. But Penrose, the "boss," who was the direct antithesis of everything that La Follette stood for, grunted "No." Penrose liked La Follette. They seldom if ever were on the same side of a question, but there were few personal friendships in the senate as close as that between the fiery Wisconsin Progressive and the taciturn, reactionary Pennsylvania boss. They had a mutual respect for courage and ability.

tivate a spirit of friendship unless there is a feeling of tolerance," said the speaker. "Intolerance is like a boomerang—it always returns to its starting point."

"The man, who prefers to live alone is either a beast or a God. Friendship is the flower of ethics and the root of politics. We are what we are because of the influence back three or four generations.

"Kiwanianis teaches one to have confidence in his fellow man. We cannot have friendship unless we have confidence. It is far better to be deceived by humanity than to lose confidence in all men.

"We would have a broad vision—to look into the future—extend your no vision, people perish. If your horizon is limited to East Liverpool alone, you soon will be lost. You must look into tehe future—extend your vision to prosper and to gain.

"Like that of other organizations of this kind, Kiwanis ideal is service. The thing that holds a group of men such as this together is service."

Ex-husband Must Pay Alimony Altho Ex-wife is Married

NEW YORK, June 18.—The contention that a former husband is liable for alimony to his ex-wife even though she be remarried, was upheld today in the verdict by a Queens county jury to Mrs. Stanley Eichelberger, former wife of John L. Dodge, millionaire pill manufacturer, of unpaid alimony amounting to $63,855.79.

Mrs. Eichelberger, who lives in Los Angeles, Cal., divorced Dodge in 1912 and remarried him the same year. She later obtained another divorce and maintained he agreed to give her $12,000 a year alimony, together with two estates, one near Lexington, Ky., and the other near Groveton, Ga. In 1917 she married Sanley Eichelberger, wealthy mining engineer, of Denver, Col.

Kirby has been on trial for the last week as a result of a state investigation of the collapse of hte gigantic concern, which he founded and directed until 1921.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 17.—Speculative activity centered around the Pierce Arrow motor stocks and a small number of the utility and specialty stocks in the early trading today. Rumors that Mack Trucks was negotiating for the truck business of the Pierce-Arrow company and that back dividends on the preferred would be satisfactorily adjusted led to enthusiastic buying of the stocks immediately after the opening. When the common moved up nearly 2 points, the prior preferred, which is exchangeable at five shares of common for one of preferred, advanced 8 points to 152½. The preferred gained 2 points at 85.

Oil stocks led in activity in this period and prices were generally inclined to higher levels. Standaard Oil of New Jersey was an early leader in the rally in oil stocks, and fractional gains were scored by Mid-continent, Phillips, Marland, Pan American, Royal Dutch, Pure Oil, Skelly, etc. Independent oil and gas, which led an enthusiastic upward movement last week, lost nearly 2 points.

Between the Devil and the Deep Sea

Consider, for a moment, the plight of the contractors:

On the one hand, they have the striking carpenters, who refuse to accept the old scale, refuse to consider arbitration, refuse to do anything toward settlement of the dispute and who now pack up, in some numbers, and go away to work elsewhere.

On the other hand, the contractors have their customers, whose construction work has already been held up for one and two-thirds months of the most valuable building time of the year, who need their buildings and who naturally want them.

The contractors feel they are practically compelled to go out and get other carpenters who will work. What else can they do? Things are the same in the contracting business as in any other business or as they are in life itself; if your customer or your employer want you to do something and you won't do it or if you say you can't do it, the customer or the employer is very apt to find somebody who will do it, pretty quickly.

The contractors have done everything they can. With a little help from the other side, they might have worked this out. Now they can do nothing but go out and get their customers' work done.

DR. C. C. FAIMAN HITS SHEPHERD AS WITNESS IN "GERM MURDER"

STAR ON STAND

Accused Hears University Officer Tell Damaging Story.

CHICAGO, June 18.—"I had some tubes of bacteria. Shepherd asked me if he could have them and I told him he could—I could get more. They didn't cost me anything. He asked me if I knew of any instance of bacteria being used for criminal purposes.

William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock, sat in the criminal court today and heard, in these words, the most damaging testimony scored against him.

Dr. Charles C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences, star of the prosecution, was on the stand, called as a court witness.

Corroborates Salesman

Corroborating the testimony of John P. Marchand, a salesman for his school, Faiman, beads of perspiration appearing on his forehead, told of receiving a letter from Shepherd, and of sending Marchand to see him Then he told of subsequent dealings with Shepherd.

Shepherd, he said, came to the university laboratory asking further information concerning courses in bacteriology He was shown apparatus and bacteria cultures, Faiman testified, and appeared very much interested.

"He (Shepherd) told me he had an adopted son, that he was guardian of the boy, and I told him it was nice for him as he did not have any of his own," Faiman declared. "He said the boy was worth a lot of money—probably one or two million, and he told me his name was Billy. I asked him how old he was and he said he was becoming of age. I told him it would put him in sort of a bad fix to lose him when he became of age.

Asked About Laxatives.

"I asked him if he arranged any will for him and he said that he had arranged his will—that he could do practically as he wanted with it, I told him it was very fortunate for him to have an adopted son, especially one with a lot of money.

"About the middle of October, Shepherd called me up and made an appointment. He told me he had his plans all arranged to prepare typhoid cultures and put them in water.

"I told him that was about the only way one could anywhere be sure of an infection."

Faiman said Shepherd asked him about laxatives and how they affected a patient, and Faiman said he told him they would affect the patient adversely.

Promised $100,000, He Says.

Later, Faiman said, Shepherd came out to the university and asked if Faiman kept any records. "I told him only letter files and pointed them out to him. He went to the files and took out the letter. I said I ought to be getting something out of this and he gave me $50 for the letter. Then I said we ought to get down to some definite arrangements. I said I thought I ought to get a fourth, and he said it was too much. Then he agreed on a hundred thousand dollars."

A couple of weeks later, Faiman said, Shepherd called him up and made an appointment. At the meeting Shepherd said Billy had taken sick and said he had given Billy the cathartic.

Faiman said he did not hear from Shepherd again until after Billy was buried and then Shepherd called up to say he was leaving the city for a few weeks.

"Then things began to come out in the paper and he came back from the south," said Faiman. "He called me up and I told him I was getting scared. He said there was nothing to worry about."

While a court room crowded almost to suffocation waited patiently in expectation of "fireworks," counsel for the defense argued before Judge Lynch to forestall Faiman being called by the court.

Judge Lynch finally ruled that Faiman would be called as a court witness and the court would conduct the direct examination. Judge questioned Faiman about his transaction with Shepherd.

miles of war books will be condensed by historical writers, 20 years from now?

The entire five miles of books might be boiled down to this:

"In 1914 the Germans, foolishly living under the rule of a kaiser, allowed themselves to be led into a war. It seemed disastrous at first, but the losses were soon more than made up by the prosperity of the German republic."

Investigators for the United States government alleged that an able young man named Livermore sold 50,000,000 bushels of wheat that he didn't own.

This selling, "dumping wheat on the market," of course, knocked down the price. It was just one gamble among many for the plunger selling short. It was something different for the farmers.

It is said that the government will take "firm regulatory measures." That's pleasing news, if those measures amount to anything, and they probably won't.

If a man can sell 50,000,000 bushels of something he doesn't own, never saw, and makes perhaps $25,000,000 in a few days, he has more influence sometimes than the farmer that has raised 1,000 bushels of wheat by the sweat of his brow.

The Mexican question agitates this country, and bothered the stock speculators for a while yesterday. There is no need for agitation. We are not going to have any quarrel with the Mexicans. The people of the United States have only the friendliest feeling for Mexico.

Americans feel that they are fortunate in having good neighbors, north and south, and they don't intend to do anything to jeopardize that situation.

Those that resent Calles' rejoinder to the United States note should bear in mind that what Calles said to us is about what we should have said to Calles had we received a note of complaint such as he received.

It isn't a question about the justness of the complaint. A nation don't like to be criticised.

German scientists, led by a woman, Dr. Ida Tacke, have discovered two more "elements," leaving only three to be discovered. A great scientist, Mendeleef, demonstrated long ago that 95 elements make up all the substances that we see on earth, in the air, under the earth and under the waters and everything that the spectroscope reveals in the universe around us.

Everything in this entire universe, from the giant sun, Aldabaran, to the claw of a field mouse, is made of a mixture of only "95 different elements," and that is amazing.

The moderation league reports that drinking "in the south" has increased 120 per cent in 34 cities under prohibition.

Why pick out the south? There is no more drinking there than elsewhere. In any part of the United States you can drink as much as you like. The only trouble is that what you drink in the way of whisky is a little worse poison than it used to be.

Lecture on Satan.

"Despite the fact that Satan is the author of death, disease, sorrow, sin, demolition, degeneration and degeneracy, I never speak carelessly or flippantly of him," asserted Dr. Tucker. "For once he was an exalted personage before his pride moved him to err and later fall."

"Only the Lord Himself can attend to Satan," he said. "He saw him following his rebellion 'fall from heaven as lightning' to the earth and here become the source of all iniquity and moral disorder."

Dr. Tucker declared the experience of Satan succinctly proved the truthfulness of the assertion "he that exalteth himself shall be abased."

That the Revelations indicate the coming to earth of "the beast"—the man of sin and "the false prophet"—the ecclesiastical apostasy was, he affirmed, certain.

In a discussion of the world flux and the part taken in it by Premier Mussolini, of Italy, Dr. Tucker, who witnessed the entrance into Rome of the Fascisti on the memorable day that preceded their taking over the government, paid the Italian people a tribute.

"The men of Italy are the handsomest in all Europe, their women and children the most beautiful and their mothers the most wonderful anywhere. Do not misjudge Italians. They are a great race. They are a superior minded people. There is a Galli-Curci in every Italian theater and a Caruso on every street corner."

"But despite all this there are sore spots in Rome which situation is equaled elsewhere as evidence by the declaration recently in the French chamber of deputies that 'Europe is standing on feet of clay.' The prophet Daniel said the same thing. All these things are but a part of the great judgment which John in his Revelations maintained would come to pass."

Dr. Tucker averred that vast hordes of demons inhabit sections immediately above the earth and they are organized. Twice, he said, Jesus Christ passed through them, the first time to come to earth in this humiliation and the second time in His exaltation as He asscended to heaven.

All the false doctrines so prominent at this time he declared to be in line with the attempt to envelop the world in ignorance and sin.

That the Son of man is also due, he unhesitatingly declared, and "He will judge the world in righteousness and equity," he said.

Dr. Tucker again made use of a large chart by which he pointed out the connecting truths of the last volume in the holy canonical Scriptures.

tee on manufacturers, Senator La Follette sponsored the resolution which led to the famous senate oil investigations, which have culminated in criminal indictments against Ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, Harry F Sinclair and E. L Doheny. He was also the ranking Republican member of the committees on interstate commerce and finance and could have been the chairman of either had it not been for his refusal to "play ball" with the Republican leaders in the senate.

The climax of La Follette's career came a year ago when he definitely broke with the regular Republican organization, established a new independent party with the support of the Conference for Progressive Political Action and the American Federation of Labor. He waged a hard campaign but fell before the combined attack of the Republican and Democrats and succeeded in carrying no territory except his home state of Wisconsin.

Tentative plans of Mrs. La Follette and her sons were that simple funeral services would be held here tomorrow or Saturday and that the body would then be taken to Madison, Wis., for burial.

Fighting Independent.

Few men have left a deeper imprint upon the politics and government of their time than Robert Marion La Follette—a Republican by name, but a fiery, fighting independent by preference.

The nickname of "Fighting Bob" La Follette was no idle jest—it was real, as any number of Old Guard Republicans will ruefully testify.

La Follette's whole life, from the time he was a spindle-shanked, somewhat sickly boy in Wisconsin, until the time he expired in the corpulency of old age, was one of unceasing struggle for the things in which he believed. Many people did not agree with him or his policies, but few, if any, ever questioned his sincerity for the loyalty which he gave without stint to the cause of progressivism in American politics.

Varied Career.

He had a career that was unparalleled in the politics of his time. He tasted the rarified atmosphere of the upper heights of popular favor, but he also drank deep of the bitter dregs of disfavor. So bitter were they that at one time, when the nation was being swept with successive waves of war hysteria, a resolution of expulsion was introduced in the senate because he had dared to speak his mind about the war. The resolution came to naught, and in his later life, La Follette always felt that vindication had been his.

La Follette was born in Primrose township, Dane county, Wisconsin, on June 14, 1855. It may have been that La Follette's hatred of war was engendered in his boyhood, for in his adolescence the horrors of the Civil war became deeply impressed upon his mind.

La Follette came of good American stock—Indiana and Kentucky settlers, who had braved the wilderness and had fought in the conflict between the states.

Born on Farm.

Like so many other prominent men of his time, he was born on a farm and acquired an early knowledge with and sympathy for the men who wrest their living from the soil. He always had wanted to be a lawyer, and so at 24, after a hard struggle, he graduated from the University of Wisconsin. A year later, in 1880, he was admitted to the bar and hung out his shingle in his home community of Madison, Wis. At that time, as he relates in his autobiography, he had a mother and a sister to support and was himself engaged to be married.

La Follette's entry into politics came that same year. He was a thin, small youth of 25, who had a distinguished record in the university for oratory, but little else. He cast his eye on the district attorneyship of Dane county, in which is located the university.

La Follette described his entry into politics humorously in his book, "A Personal Narrative of Personal Experiences." Having decided he would like to be district attorney, he proceeded to go after the position by personally soliciting the support of the farmers, students and people of the community. At that time, he confesses in his book, the principal attraction was the $800 yearly salary the job paid.

The boss of Dane county at that particular time was one Colonel E. W. Keyes, the postmaster at Madison. For some time, La Follette relates, Colonel Keyes suffered him to continue his canvass of the voters, seeking support for his candidacy, and then Keyes summoned him to the postoffice.

Defied Boss.

"He told me I was wasting my time," said La Follette. "He also told me the name of the next District Attorney of Dane County—and his name was not La Follette."

He made the youngster mad, it appeared, and from that time on La Follette was insurgent. La Follette continued his canvass among the Swedes and Norwegians he knew so well, with the result that on election day he made an astonishing run and beat the machine by the narrow margin of 23 votes. He held the office for four years and then decided he wanted a broader field and came to congress—a stripling of 30 years.

He served in congress for three terms and then went back to the State, "disgusted," as he himself phrased it, by the manner in which things were done in Washington. He thought he could accomplish more good in the State than in the vast machinery of congress and national life, where he was only a small cog.

For ten years then La Follette practiced law and directed the progressive movement in his State—out of office. Then, in 1901, he ran for the governorship and was elected. He served in all thre terms, making a progressive record that gave birth to the much-mooted "Wisconsin idea,' so talked of some years ago. Railroad reform was his particular hobby, and he made the roads of his State sweat blood.

He resigned from the governorship finally and in 1905 came to the United States Senate, where he has been continually in the forefront of progressive fights.

Always Candidate.

From 1908 on, La Follette was always a candidate for the precidency, and always he received Wisconsin's vote in the national conventions.

La Follette had real aspirations in 1908. He had a remarkable record as a progressive governor of Wisconsin. Roosevelt was retiring and La Follette did not like the idea of T. R. nominating his own successor—which he did in the person of William Howard Taft. He swallowed his disappointment, however, and struggled on through the very conservative years of the Taft administration, alway holding aloft the torchlight of Progressivism.

Again in 1912, the year of the Republican split, he felt he had a chance. But the powers in his party were fearful of him—he was too progressive—and again he was disappointed.

There are enemies of La Follette who say that these successive disappointments were responsible for much of La Follette's so-called radicalism. But his friends deny this with considerable warmth and point to his undeviating progressive record of a lifetime as refutation of the charge that he was a Progressive because he was resentful.

Opposed War.

Came the war and the hysteria that accompanied it. La Follette was opposed to it and he threw all his magnificent ability into the cause of keeping the United States out of it. He was one of the few who voted against the passage of the war resolution. He was one of Woodrow Wilson's "wilful men."

But he stuck grimly to his ideals and his beliefs. He never opposed successful prosecution of the war, once America was in it, but he believed our entrance was a mistake, and he said so, boldly, defiantly and whenever the opportunity offered.

The incident that brought about the expulsion resolution in the senate was a speech at St. Paul, which he delivered without manuscript. He spoke about the war, and he claimed to his dying day that his speech was misquoted. At any rate some of his colleagues in the senate, notably Kellogg (R.), of Minnesota, whose election he had opposed, who had watched with growing anger La Follette's criticism of America's war effort, sponsored the movement to expel him from the senate for disloyalty to the nation.

Aided by Penrose.

For a time it looked like his enemies might accomplish their purpose, but in the end it was Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who saved him.

The Democrats, smarting under his attacks on Wilson, were for ousting him forthwith. Some of his Republican enemies sympathized with them. But Penrose, the "boss," who was the direct antithesis of everything that La Follette stood for, grunted "No." Penrose liked La Follette. They seldom if ever were on the same side of a question, but there were few personal friendships in the senate as close as that between the fiery Wisconsin Progressive and the taciturn, reactionary Pennsylvania boss. They had a mutual respect for courage and ability.

tivate a spirit of friendship unless there is a feeling of tolerance," said the speaker. "Intolerance is like a boomerang—it always returns to its starting point."

"The man, who prefers to live alone is either a beast or a God. Friendship is the flower of ethics and the root of politics. We are what we are because of the influence back three or four generations.

"Kiwanianis teaches one to have confidence in his fellow man. We cannot have friendship unless we have confidence. It is far better to be deceived by humanity than to lose confidence in all men.

"We would have a broad vision—to look into the future—extend your no vision, people perish. If your horizon is limited to East Liverpool alone, you soon will be lost. You must look into tehe future—extend your vision to prosper and to gain.

"Like that of other organizations of this kind, Kiwanis ideal is service. The thing that holds a group of men such as this together is service."

Ex-husband Must Pay Alimony Altho Ex-wife is Married

NEW YORK, June 18.—The contention that a former husband is liable for alimony to his ex-wife even though she be remarried, was upheld today in the verdict by a Queens county jury to Mrs. Stanley Eichelberger, former wife of John L. Dodge, millionaire pill manufacturer, of unpaid alimony amounting to $63,855.79.

Mrs. Eichelberger, who lives in Los Angeles, Cal., divorced Dodge in 1912 and remarried him the same year. She later obtained another divorce and maintained he agreed to give her $12,000 a year alimony, together with two estates, one near Lexington, Ky., and the other near Groveton, Ga. In 1917 she married Sanley Eichelberger, wealthy mining engineer, of Denver, Col.

Kirby has been on trial for the last week as a result of a state investigation of the collapse of hte gigantic concern, which he founded and directed until 1921.

BRITAIN WINS TENNIS SERIES

EASTBOURNE, Eng., June 18.—Great Britain captured the Anglo-American Lawn Tennis series today by three matches to two, when J. B. Gilbert, of England, defeated Ray Cases, of San Francisco, in the deciding singles match, 9 to 7, 9 to 7 and 6 to 3. John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, previously had squared the series by disposing of Pat Wheatley, of England, in a four-set match.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 17.—Speculative activity centered around the Pierce Arrow motor stocks and a small number of the utility and specialty stocks in the early trading today. Rumors that Mack Trucks was negotiating for the truck business of the Pierce-Arrow company and that back dividends on the preferred would be satisfactorily adjusted led to enthusiastic buying of the stocks immediately after the opening. When the common moved up nearly 2 points, the prior preferred, which is exchangeable at five shares of common for one of preferred, advanced 8 points to 152½. The preferred gained 2 points at 85.

Oil stocks led in activity in this period and prices were generally inclined to higher levels. Standaard Oil of New Jersey was an early leader in the rally in oil stocks, and fractional gains were scored by Mid-continent, Phillips, Marland, Pan American, Royal Dutch, Pure Oil, Skelly, etc. Independent oil and gas, which led an enthusiastic upward movement last week, lost nearly 2 points.

NAVY FIGURES SUN'S VAGARIES

Eclipses for Years to Come Scheduled by Scientists.

Washington.—Prolonged study of the vagaries of the sun and the moon has enabled scientists of the United States naval observatory here to work out their eclipses for the next three years. Under the direction of Capt. W. S. Eichelberger, U. S. N., they now are starting on the 1929 eclipses.

An annual eclipse of the sun—an eclipse where the rim of the sun shows outside of the eclipsed area—is forecast for July 20-21, this year, but will be invisible in the United States. A partial eclipse of the moon is due August 4, being more or less visible in the eastern states and wholly visible on the Pacific coast.

There will be no eclipse of the moon next year, but there will be a total eclipse of the sun January 14, 1926. It will be visible only from Africa to the Indian ocean, and the naval observatory will send a party from here to Sumatra to observe it.

An annular eclipse of the sun will be visible July 9-10, 1926, in the central Pacific ocean, and as a partial in northern Australia, the eastern edge of Asia, the United States and Mexico.

In 1927 there will be five eclipses—three of the sun and two of the moon. Seven eclipses in a year is the maximum, five of the sun and two of the moon, and the least number in a twelve-month is two, both of the sun, as will be the case in 1926.

An annular solar eclipse, visible in the southern Pacific, will occur January 3, 1927. A total of the sun, June 29, will be visible in Europe, appearing as a near total at Nome, Alaska. Another total of the moon in 1927 will take place December 8, visible generally in the Pacific ocean and in the northern part of North America. A partial eclipse of the sun will occur December 24.

Another heavenly phenomenon will be seen in 1927 in the transit of Mercury, which will appear as a dot on the sun. On November 10 the transit will take place, visible generally in the Pacific ocean, Australia and Asia, except in the northern and western portions. It will be visible at Honolulu, Manila and Samoa.

In 1928 three of the sun and two of the moon will be the order of eclipses. Captain Eichelberger considers the total solar eclipse of May 19, 1928, will be a curious one, only part of the resulting shadow falling on the earth, appearing as a piece on the south of Africa and the southern part of South America. A total of the moon, June 3, will be visible in the western parts of North and South America, the Pacific ocean, Australia and the eastern border of Asia. Partial solar eclipses will occur June 17 and November 12, a total of the moon transpiring November 27, visible in the western hemisphere.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE WILL FIND HAVEN OF SOLITUDE AT SUMMER RETREAT; WILL DEVOTE VACATION TO READING

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, June 18. — President Coolidge is planning to spend the summer with the great men of American history.

A friend, curious as to how a man not fond of golf and surf bathing would spend a summer in one of the most fashionable resorts along the Atlantic coastline, recently asked the president what he intended to do during his vacation at Swampscott, Massachusetts, where the summer White House" is to be established.

Mr. Coolidge is said to have replied smilingly: "There are a number of biographies of great American lives with which I have never had the time to become adequately familiar. I imagine you will find me striking up a more intimate acquaintance with those men during many of my leisure moments."

Other forms of recreation besides perusal of the histories of statesmen of the past, however, are holding out alluring charms for the president. Chief among them is the blessing of solitude and quiet—a recreation particularly enjoyable to the singularly retiring Mr. Coolidge.

Ideal Location.

"White Court," the summer estate of Frank W. Stearns, is so admirably situated as to afford the president far more privacy than he can command even in the sanctity of his private study in the White House. The equivalent of more than two city blocks from the public highway, connected thereto by a private road, its spacious grounds shut off from adjoining property by an encircling wall, "White Court" offers a perfect retreat from the outside world. None but those the president desires to see may gain ingress.

In addition to the natural inaccessibility of the summer White House, additional measures have been planned to assure presidential seclusion. About the grounds, in addition to the inevitable network of secret service operatives, will be stationed the presidential guard from the U. S. S. Mayflower—stalwart marines, especially picked for their physique and ability. Night and day, the inquisitive tourist, the aspiring local slimber, the political and the unwelcome official must run the gauntlet of this double cordon.

Anchored in the bay off "White Court" will be the Mayflower, presidential playtoy de luxe, seaworthy and eminently manned for pleasure cruises up and down the New England coast line. In the garages will be the White House automobiles, especially transported from Washington for the pleasure of the president. In the stables are well-groomed riding horses should the executive desire to avail himself of the sport from which he once got much enjoyment.

Other Recreations.

Reading, resting, yachting, motoring, riding, thus will the president spend his two months at the seashore of the state he once governed. These will be his recreations—when he is not working. For no president may absent himself from Washington for 60 days and remain absolutely free of the duties of office.

Accompanying Mr. Coolidge to Swampscott will be a sizable portion of the staff of the executive offices in the capital. Just three miles away, in Lynne, they will be established in a seven-room suite of offices—stenographers, clerks, telegraph operators, telephone operators and messengers, all under the personal supervision of Secretary to the President Everett Sanders. It is not unlikely that after the first week or so of his vacation, Mr. Coolidge will spend at least an hour a day in the temporary executive offices himself, perusing mail, signing letters and official documents, and receiving really important callers.

But one adjunct of the White House staff will be left behind. They are the social secretaries. Formal receptions, teas and at-homes will be left behind in Washington as part of the tedium from which the White House couple hope to escape. Such entertaining and receiving as is done will be of the informal nature, including only those old and loved friends whom it will be a pleasure to meet with again.

Society Abustle.

Society, however, continues to make its summer plans with proximity to the summer White House a dominating factor. Old and magnificent estates along the North Shore, tenantless for many past summers, will be thrown open this month. Real estate has boomed in almost Florida fashion and hotel proprietors are gleefully looking forward to a most prosperous season with rooms at a preminum. The "codfish aristocrary" is joining hands with the blue books of Washington, New York and Philadelphia, to give Swampscott and its environs a terrific rush during the hot months of 1925.

And, to add a cosmopolitan atmosphere, the flags of at least four foreign embassies and legations will be in evidence around "White Court." Baron Von Maltzen, the new German ambassador, is esteablishing a summer embassy at Magnolia. Juniper Hill, Beverly Farms, will be the site of the Italian embassy for several months with the ambassador, Baron Iacomo de Martino and his family at hand. Although Sir Esme Howard and his family will summer in Switzerland, attaches of the British embassy are moving, as usual, to Manchester, while the Siamese legation will again locate at Bass Rocks. Other members of the diplomatic corps, no doubt, will follow suit.

Invited By Stearns.

The establishment of the Coolidge retinue on the North Shore will mark the first removal from Washington of the seat of the executive branch of the government since 1916. In that year Woodrow Wilson spent his last summer before American entry into the World war at the now famous "Shadow Lawn," near Deal, New Jersey. It will be the second time in the present century, however, that the Bay state has become the temporary site of the White House, Chief Justice William Howard Taft, when president, spent the majority of his summers at Beverly.

Given Boost in Wages.

ELYRIA, June 17.—Motormen and conductors of both divisions of the Cleveland, Columbus Southwestern Electric company have been granted an increase of 3 cents an hour in wages, making a maximum of 57 cents an hour for employes after the second year.

Railroad rates for iron and steel in Germany recently dropped nearly one-third.

Vacation Bible School

The Daily Vacation Bible school, launched successfully here a few years ago, will open for the summer term Monday morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church, with at least three churches sponsoring it.

Besides the Methodist Episcopal congregation, the First United Presbyterian and the First Methodist Protestant churches have pledged their co-operation in training the child in character, teaching respect for the home and church and building in civic pride and service. The First Baptist and First Presbyterian churches are expected to join in the movement.

And another important purpose of the Bible school is to counteract influences to which a child is subject when the restraint of the nine-month term in the public school is removed. In the Bible school they are taught studies of benefit, while diversions in the form of hikes, picnics, etc., are offered as a means of maintaining the interest of the pupils.

It is a movement that is certain to make better citizens of Young America.

"Abolish The Air"

A British newspaper quotes Sir Hugh Trenchard, air chief marshal of Great Britain, as follows:

"I do not want you to think that I look upon the air as a blessing altogether. I feel that all the good it will do in civil life cannot balance the harm that may be done in war by it and, if I had the casting vote, I would say abolish the air.

"But nothing you can do or say will stop all the benefits of aviation or all the horrors of it."

This is a grim statement from a military man with great faith in the efficacy of his particular branch of the service—aviation. Other experts on war and the weapons of war have had similar things to say about the possibilities of war-making and wholesale destruction and slaughter from the air. To all who are convinced that war can ever be abolished except by the annihilation of the human race, the only escape from the terrors of the air seems to lie in abolishing aviation and giving up all the good it promises a peaceful civilization.

To others with a little more hope in their souls these facts about air warfare suggest the advisability of increasing every effort to abolish war. It is a staggering task, but it is too soon to call it an impossible one.

Fifty Years of Murder

A county prosecutor, gathering murder figures for guidance in his own criminal policy, finds that there have been 300,000 persons murdered in this country in the last half-century, and that the average in recent years has been about 10,000 a year.

Here is an army of slaughtered citizens. It appears that there have been four persons slaughtered by their fellow-countrymen to every soldier killed in war by foreign enemies.

It is a shocking revelation. Yet it is doubtful whether it will shed any new light on the murder problem or suggest any new solution.

Shall murder be punished more severely, or less severely? All the study and analysis of this question seem to bring no generally convincing answer. There are strong arguments for and against capital punishment, but not decisive ones on either side.

There does seem to be a growing feeling that the murderer's mind is usually a sick mind, and that murder cases therefore are likely to be pathological as much as criminal. But the science of "ministering to a mind diseased" is still in its infancy. It takes a remarkably gifted psychologist to take a killer's mind to pieces and tell what part of his criminal deed was caused by irresponsible weakness or inherited defect and what by deliberate and responsible choice.

We are not likely to solve this criminology problem until the twin sciences of mind and morals are far more advanced than they are now. Pending such progress, a more general effort for peace and human brotherhood at home and abroad, should help to modify the killing spirit.

Beating The Doctor

A wealthy farmer of Tamora, Neb., needed an operation that would have cost him perhaps $50. He didn't want to spend the money, but he wanted to get rid of the tumor. So he proceeded to cut it out himself.

That took a great deal of self-confidence. It took still more courage. Cutting one's own nails is about as far as the ordinary person cares to go in the way of self-amputation. Give all credit to that old farmer for sheer pluck.

But the pluck was misapplied and wasted. Naturally enough, after his amateurish operation, the wound became infected. As a result, he died. He would better have given his whole farm to a good surgeon.

"Beating the doctor" is a practice all too common, even in this age of spreading knowledge regarding hygiene and surgery. And almost invariably the stingy or egotistic patient ends by beating himself.

A good many "radicals" are mistaken for dynamite bombs when they're only wind bags.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 18.—The swimming pool party is not merely a jest of the comic weekly. Two have been held this summer—one in town and the other at a cloistered Long Island villa. Each was a dinner with tables arranged around edges of the pools.

Guests donned their bathing habiliments after arriving and splashed around in the pool while cocktails were served. After drying out a bit they were served with a course dinner. And after cigarets they repaired to the pool again where butlers in swimming togs served cordials.

The invitation to one mere gave the name of the host, a bachelor, and said "Aquatic Soiree — Bring your bathing suit!" Such innovations are of course welcomed by the blase of Mayfair but the one on Long Island almost resulted in a backfire of scandal.

So it is presumed aquatic dinners will not be popular. One of the ladies, it appears, became slightly squiffed and although she could not swim the idea grew that if Steve Brody took a chance from Brooklyn Bridge she could from the rise of a silly three foot marble slab.

She did in water over her head when a sober butler — literally and figuratively—rescued her just as she was nearing the pulmotor stage. She will now confine her Annette Kellerman aspirations to the bathtub. But swimming pool idea will not die.

Very few private homes are being built these days without an elaborate pool. A new apartment house advertises they have two 16-room apartments with a private swimming pool in each. The rent, by the way, is only $32,000 a year. Just a mere splash!

Young nobs have at last found something new in shirts. Colored ones with collars to match have had a long reign and will likely continue popular, but a new note has slipped in. It is the heavy lumberjack shirt with soft rolling attached collar and big squares of various hues. I saw one on the avenue. The wearer also had low shoes of black and tan squares. That, as Picadilly would say, is almost "getting at one."

Just as the Bowery girls imitate their more fortunate sisters uptown so do Bowery hotels. The Bowery has lodging houses named Plaza Chatham, Savoy, Waldorf, Majestic and Astor. These are the dim-lit havens, in most instances, that the Bowery knows as "flop joints."

A New Yorker was talked out of the idea of investing $5,000 in "Abie's Irish Rose" when it looked as though it was destined for the gloom of a theatrical warehouse. He had the check made out and everything. That investment would have netted him a cool million up to this writing. (I wonder why we call a million cool? It would likely burn up most of us.)

My sympathy for the husband so easily swayed in his theatrical venture is keen. I was talked out of my own hat in a hotel checking room the other noon and my mail is convincing proof that I am on the "sucker list" of every chimerical scheme hatched in Wall street. Bright young men who phone me they are "putting their propostion only in the hands of a carefully selected list of prominent men" receive my most courteous attention.

Ten criminals corraled for a trip to Sing Sing were asked a list of questions. All but two admitted using hard liquor, four using narcotics, five said they had at various times taken money from women, not one had written to relatives in years, but all admitted they had at some time or other written anonymous letters.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Tipless Hotel

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—For some time there has been much discussion and study of the tipping system in hotels. At least one hotel has found it is possible to operate without tipping, and, furthermore, the employes seem to like it. It is the Grace Dodge Hotel in this city.

This hotel was planned and construction begun during the World war. It was a measure to help solve the great housing problem then existing in Washington. However, before it could be completed the armistice had been signed and the necessity for it no longer was imperative. It was decided to go ahead with it and run it on a commercial basis.

The Grace Dodge has been open for four years and during that period many changes have been made in its method of operation. Originally it was planned that only women would be accommodated, the male sex to be represented only by boys under the age of twelve. It was found that many of the guests had brothers, fathers and husbands, and wished to have them stay in the same hotel. Therefore two floors have been opened to men.

Also the original plan was to have a majority of single rooms so as to accommodate the greatest possible number of girls. There were only a few double rooms with private baths. It was thought that most of the girls would prefer showers. Now it has been found that a large number of people want double rooms with baths of the old fashioned tub variety. To meet this demand, partitions in all of the rooms on the front are being torn out and large, airy double rooms with baths are being made.

All of this might of course be happening in any hotel, but the management of the hotel is unique. In the first place the head of every department, except the chief engineer, is a woman. The manager is Miss Mary Lindsley, a woman endowed with a charming personality and an understanding of human nature. She is an advocate of economic independence and the employes of the hotel are managed with this idea always in view.

Employes Pay Their Way

Unlike most hotels food and quarters are not given to any employe from the manager to the most obscure scrub woman. Each pays their own way. Those who live in the hotel pay room rent as any guest does, and every employe pays for her food purchased in the cafeteria which has been established for employes. Of course no attempt is made to realize a profit on the food sold employes. They are given a wholesale rate.

Miss Lindsley believes that requiring all employes to pay for what they receive makes them more independent economically. Also it aids in teaching them to plan systematically the spending of their money. No employe is forced to eat at the hotel. Each may bring her lunch, or she may go outside to eat. She is absolutely independent.

No tipping is permitted. The hotel pays each employe a salary which is believed to be commensurate with the work she is doing. There is, however, a Christmas fund and any guest who wishes may contribute to this. On Christmas morning this money is divided equally among all employes. And apparently all are satisfied. Occasionally one is found who is not averse to accepting a tip, but she must either reform or be dismissed. Miss Lindsley estimates that there are at the present time about fifty employes who have been in the hotel since it opened, and a hundred who have been there over a year.

Each employe is given an annual vacation with pay. The vacation ranges from two to four weeks, depending upon the length of service. This is another incentive to continued service. The faithful employe feels that she will be rewarded accordingly. It gives the new employe something to strive for.

The manager has won the respect and loyalty of her entire staff. Each one takes great pride in her particular job and likes to feel that she is doing her share toward carrying out the principles and ideals upon which the hotel is operated. Miss Lindsley takes a personal interest in the employes and the colored workers, especially like to feel that they belong to her. When no guest is about they revert to the old southern custom of calling her "Miss Mary." They know that she is fair and will treat them with understanding.

During the recent hot spell Miss Lindsley overheard two of the colored employes quarreling. She said it was the first time she had ever heard a quarrel, although she didn't doubt that they probably had their disagreements when she wasn't around. Instead of demanding harshly that they be quiet, she asked what the trouble was. The girl complained, "Jo is picking on me." And Miss Lindsley realizing the heat was sufficient to make anyone irritable said, "Well, Susie, I think you had better go and take a shower. Cool yourself off and see if you don't feel better."

Helping College Girls

This hotel gives college girls an opportunity to obtain practical experience in doing institutional work, and the manager receives more requests than she can possibly fill.

But the employes are not the only beneficiaries of this unique hotel. The guests find that comfort and happiness is also the concern of the management. This is particularly true of mothers with young children. Any mother who wishes to come to Washington to sightsee or to shop may bring along the child and his clothes and the hotel will attend to the rest. They have nurses, toys, bath tubs equipped with bath tub toys and sterilizing facilities for everything the baby may need. The mother may go out with an easy mind, knowing that her child is receiving every attention.

Also there are special menus prepared for children. These have the approval of Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics. Miss Lindsley conceived this idea because of having overheard a mother in the dining room say one day to a small child, "Just wait a minute, dear, mother will find something for you to eat." It seemed wrong that with all the thought and care spent upon planning menus, none had been given to what a child might eat.

The Christmas parties at this hotel are becoming so popular that last year a number of former guests returned just to be present on that occasion. A stocking is hung on the door of each guest's room and filled with candy, fruit and a hotel calendar. There is a huge Christmas tree and on Christmas Eve there are carolers from local churches. Punch and cakes are served by the management and guests are urged to invite their friends.

Last year there were about 400 guests.

Christmas morning after breakfast the colored servants came into the dining room and sang carols. Then the Christmas tree fund was distributed and as the colored folks passed out of the room they hummed "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." It was most impressive and somehow touching. There were few dry eyes. A noted writer of children's stories who had taken the manager to task for expending so much time and effort on the entertainment for grownups, afterward apologized and said "I guess we are all just grownup children after all."

The Grace Dodge Hotel, it is claimed, proves two things—that a hotel can be operated efficiently and that it is possible to place a hotel staff on the same economic basis as the employes of any other kind of business.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—For some time there has been much discussion and study of the tipping system in hotels. At least one hotel has found it is possible to operate without tipping, and, furthermore, the employes seem to like it. It is the Grace Dodge Hotel in this city.

This hotel was planned and construction begun during the World war. It was a measure to help solve the great housing problem then existing in Washington. Also it aids in teaching them to plan systematically the spending of their money. No employe is forced to eat at the hotel. Each may bring her lunch, or she may go outside to eat. She is absolutely independent.

No tipping is permitted. The hotel pays each employe a salary which is believed to be commensurate with the work she is doing. There is, however, a Christmas fund and any guest who wishes may contribute to this. On Christmas morning this money is divided equally among all employes. And apparently all are satisfied. Occasionally one is found who is not averse to accepting a tip, but she must either reform or be dismissed. Miss Lindsley estimates that there are at the present time about fifty employes who have been in the hotel since it opened, and a hundred who have been there over a year.

Each employe is given an annual vacation with pay. The vacation ranges from two to four weeks, depending upon the length of service. This is another incentive to continued service. The faithful employe feels that she will be rewarded accordingly. It gives the new employe something to strive for.

The manager has won the respect and loyalty of her entire staff. Each one takes great pride in her particular job and likes to feel that she is doing her share toward carrying out the principles and ideals upon which the hotel is operated. Miss Lindsley takes a personal interest in the employes and the colored workers, especially like to feel that they belong to her. When no guest is about they revert to the old southern custom of calling her "Miss Mary." They know that she is fair and will treat them with understanding.

During the recent hot spell Miss Lindsley overheard two of the colored employes quarreling. She said it was the first time she had ever heard a quarrel, although she didn't doubt that they probably had their disagreements when she wasn't around. Instead of demanding harshly that they be quiet, she asked what the trouble was. The girl complained, "Jo is picking on me." And Miss Lindsley realizing the heat was sufficient to make anyone irritable said, "Well, Susie, I think you had better go and take a shower. Cool yourself off and see if you don't feel better."

Helping College Girls

This hotel gives college girls an opportunity to obtain practical experience in doing institutional work, and the manager receives more requests than she can possibly fill.

But the employes are not the only beneficiaries of this unique hotel. The guests find that comfort and happiness is also the concern of the management. This is particularly true of mothers with young children. Any mother who wishes to come to Washington to sightsee or to shop may bring along the child and his clothes and the hotel will attend to the rest. They have nurses, toys, bath tubs equipped with bath tub toys and sterilizing facilities for everything the baby may need. The mother may go out with an easy mind, knowing that her child is receiving every attention.

Also there are special menus prepared for children. These have the approval of Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics. Miss Lindsley conceived this idea because of having overheard a mother in the dining room say one day to a small child, "Just wait a minute, dear, mother will find something for you to eat." It seemed wrong that with all the thought and care spent upon planning menus, none had been given to what a child might eat.

The Christmas parties at this hotel are becoming so popular that last year a number of former guests returned just to be present on that occasion. A stocking is hung on the door of each guest's room and filled with candy, fruit and a hotel calendar. There is a huge Christmas tree and on Christmas Eve there are carolers from local churches. Punch and cakes are served by the management and guests are urged to invite their friends.

Last year there were about 400 guests.

Christmas morning after breakfast the colored servants came into the dining room and sang carols. Then the Christmas tree fund was distributed and as the colored folks passed out of the room they hummed "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." It was most impressive and somehow touching. There were few dry eyes. A noted writer of children's stories who had taken the manager to task for expending so much time and effort on the entertainment for grownups, afterward apologized and said "I guess we are all just grownup children after all."

The Grace Dodge Hotel, it is claimed, proves two things—that a hotel can be operated efficiently and that it is possible to place a hotel staff on the same economic basis as the employes of any other kind of business.

Jack London Story, "Adventure," is Film Feature at Ceramic

Although it sounds like a song title or the name of a musical comedy, "The Bamboo Bed" is merely one of the unique properties used for the filming of Jack London's "Adventure," which Victor Fleming produced for Paramount.

The bed, which is constructed entirely of bamboo, is one of the few of its kind in the United States. The legs are made of large bamboo posts and the walls and sides consist of small wovenpieces.

In securing this rare piece of furniture, the Paramount property department was required to scour the entire city of Los Angeles before one could be found. The bed was discovered in a small second-hand store on the very outskirts of the city. Originally it had belonged to a family of Fijians who had shipped it to Los Angeles from the South Seas.

"Adventure" pictures in absorbing detail the stirring experiences of a fearless girl, who goes into partnership with the owner of a copra plantation on one of the savage South Sea islands. A notable cast is featured, including Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton.

With the exception of a few interiors, the entire production was photographed against gorgeous tropical backgrounds on one of the islands of the Pacific, and reproduces with amazing fidelity the life and atmosphere of the South Seas.

CHARM OF WOMEN DEPENDS UPON VITAL GLANDS

Science has found that a deficiency in certain glands in women results in mental sluggishness, irritability, despondency, forgetfulness and fatigue, tendency to sleep a great deal and morning weariness. Even the brilliancy and luster of the hair and the delicate beauty and softness of the skin are impaired if the glands do not function properly.

According to leading authorities the benefits of gland transplantation may be had without an operation; gland substance can be taken internally in tablet form.

Delicious Jams and Jellies every time

OH, it's so easy now! Before, no matter how experienced you were, you could never be sure—sometimes jelly and jam just didn't turn out. No amount of care seemed to positively safeguard you.

But you never have a failure with Certo—no desperate re-boiling—the most difficult fruits jell perfectly. For Certo is the substance in fruit that makes it jell—fruit can't jell without it.

This jelly-making element is completely lacking in some fruits, others have only a little, and even in the fruits that naturally contain most of it, it gradually diminishes as they ripen. But now, because Certo itself supplies the all-important jelly-making property, you can make your jam and jelly of the richest ripe fruits—those with the finest flavor and loveliest color. You can even use fruits that have in themselves no jelly-making property.

So easy — so quick — no juice and flavor boil away

Less than 15 minutes from fruit to jam or jelly! Certo means that just one minute's active boil is needed. No more standing stirring over a hot stove—no long boiling that reduces the amount of your jelly—no loss in steam of flavor, color and juice.

Clear, sparkling, firm, yet tender—every glass you make with Certo.

Certo's brief boil saves you all the fruit that used to boil away. When you count up the cost you will find that with Certo you have half again as many glasses as you ever got from that much fruit. Millions of housewives now use Certo all the time. Your grocer has Certo. Order a bottle right away. Douglas-Pectin Corp., Granite Building, Rochester, New York.

Jack London Story, "Adventure," is Film Feature at Ceramic

Although it sounds like a song title or the name of a musical comedy, "The Bamboo Bed" is merely one of the unique properties used for the filming of Jack London's "Adventure," which Victor Fleming produced for Paramount.

The bed, which is constructed entirely of bamboo, is one of the few of its kind in the United States. The legs are made of large bamboo posts and the walls and sides consist of small wovenpieces.

In securing this rare piece of furniture, the Paramount property department was required to scour the entire city of Los Angeles before one could be found. The bed was discovered in a small second-hand store on the very outskirts of the city. Originally it had belonged to a family of Fijians who had shipped it to Los Angeles from the South Seas.

"Adventure" pictures in absorbing detail the stirring experiences of a fearless girl, who goes into partnership with the owner of a copra plantation on one of the savage South Sea islands. A notable cast is featured, including Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton.

With the exception of a few interiors, the entire production was photographed against gorgeous tropical backgrounds on one of the islands of the Pacific, and reproduces with amazing fidelity the life and atmosphere of the South Seas.

CHARM OF WOMEN DEPENDS UPON VITAL GLANDS

Science has found that a deficiency in certain glands in women results in mental sluggishness, irritability, despondency, forgetfulness and fatigue, tendency to sleep a great deal and morning weariness. Even the brilliancy and luster of the hair and the delicate beauty and softness of the skin are impaired if the glands do not function properly.

HELLMANN'S BLUE RIBBON MAYONNAISE

"MADE IN THE HOME MADE WAY"

From any fruit —

Delicious Jams and Jellies every time

OH, it's so easy now! Before, no matter how experienced you were, you could never be sure—sometimes jelly and jam just didn't turn out. No amount of care seemed to positively safeguard you.

But you never have a failure with Certo—no desperate re-boiling—the most difficult fruits jell perfectly. For Certo is the substance in fruit that makes it jell—fruit can't jell without it.

This jelly-making element is completely lacking in some fruits, others have only a little, and even in the fruits that naturally contain most of it, it gradually diminishes as they ripen. But now, because Certo itself supplies the all-important jelly-making property, you can make your jam and jelly of the richest ripe fruits—those with the finest flavor and loveliest color. You can even use fruits that have in themselves no jelly-making property.

So easy — so quick — no juice and flavor boil away

Less than 15 minutes from fruit to jam or jelly! Certo means that just one minute's active boil is needed. No more standing stirring over a hot stove—no long boiling that reduces the amount of your jelly—no loss in steam of flavor, color and juice.

Clear, sparkling, firm, yet tender—every glass you make with Certo.

Certo's brief boil saves you all the fruit that used to boil away. When you count up the cost you will find that with Certo you have half again as many glasses as you ever got from that much fruit. Millions of housewives now use Certo all the time. Your grocer has Certo. Order a bottle right away. Douglas - Pectin Corp., Granite Building, Rochester, New York.

Weather Control May Be Achieved Via Radio Means

Scientists Believe Ether Waves May Regulate Atmospheric Changes.

WASHINGTON, June — Manufacture of weather for indoor and outdoor consumption may become among the greatest achievements of science.

"Weather control is becoming an accomplishment of engineering that will apply to human welfare in summer as in winter, in the south as in the north," the Bureau of Standards declared in describing methods of indoor heating and atmospheric control.

"There is a growing recognition of the importance of controlling the relative humidity of the air, not only in many manufacturing processes and in industrial plants, but also in the home, the office and the auditorium, where considerations of health and comfort are more and more demanding and receiving attention."

While the government studies apply only to "manufacturing of weather for indoor consumption," experts admitted that scientists are going in for outdoor weather control.

Radio an Agency.

Radio, whose miraculous development has led to the conclusion that its scope is almost limitless, may be the agency by which man in the future will make his own weather.

Scientists are studying the influence of the radio wave on the human body, whether or not it can be employed for healing purposes and if there is a probability that broadcasting will bring about a new development in the evolution of physical and mental man.

Experimenters have already hurled explosive shells into the air, hoping to induce rainfall. Other methods of weather control have been attempted by theorists. But it was declared that the use of broadcast electrical energy may become the panacea for blizzards, cyclones, droughts or perils of excessive rain.

Prevent Tornadoes.

Weather experts thought that a powerful radio station might be able to prevent tornadoes which recently wrought such havoc in the middle west by broadcasting certain electrical energy into the areas where the winds were developing.

Use of electrical waves to mobilize rain clouds over drought-smitten areas was another mentioned possibility. Operations of such a system would form one of its most serious economic depressions, would convert the western deserts into productive areas and increase the wealth of the United States by billions.

If experiments in aerial transmission of electrical energy are successful, government experts said, weather control by radio, incredible as it may seem, may yet become an accomplished fact.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

Weather Control May Be Achieved Via Radio Means

Scientists Believe Ether Waves May Regulate Atmospheric Changes.

WASHINGTON, June — Manufacture of weather for indoor and outdoor consumption may become among the greatest achievements of science.

"Weather control is becoming an accomplishment of engineering that will apply to human welfare in summer as in winter, in the south as in the north," the Bureau of Standards declared in describing methods of indoor heating and atmospheric control.

"There is a growing recognition of the importance of controlling the relative humidity of the air, not only in many manufacturing processes and in industrial plants, but also in the home, the office and the auditorium, where considerations of health and comfort are more and more demanding and receiving attention."

While the government studies apply only to "manufacturing of weather for indoor consumption," experts admitted that scientists are going in for outdoor weather control.

Radio an Agency.

Radio, whose miraculous development has led to the conclusion that its scope is almost limitless, may be the agency by which man in the future will make his own weather.

Scientists are studying the influence of the radio wave on the human body; whether or not it can be employed for healing purposes and if there is a probability that broadcasting will bring about a new development in the evolution of physical and mental man.

Experimenters have already hurled explosive shells into the air, hoping to induce rainfall. Other methods of weather control have been attempted by theorists. But it was declared that the use of broadcast electrical energy may become the panacea for blizzards, cyclones, droughts or periods of excessive rain.

Prevent Tornadoes.

Weather experts thought that a powerful radio station might be able to prevent tornadoes which recently wrought such havoc in the middle west by broadcasting certain electrical energy into the areas where the winds were developing.

Use of electrical waves to mobilize rain clouds over drought-mitten areas was another mentioned possibility. Operations of such a system would form one of its most serious economic depressions, would convert the western deserts into productive areas and increase the wealth of the United States by billions.

If experiments in aerial transmission of electrical energy are successful, government experts said, weather control by radio, incredible as it may seem, may yet become an accomplished fact.

The oldest patent was issued in 1789, when Ohio was a part of the Northwest Territory.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

Weather Control May Be Achieved Via Radio Means

Scientists Believe Ether Waves May Regulate Atmospheric Changes.

WASHINGTON, June — Manufacture of weather for indoor and outdoor consumption may become among the greatest achievements of science.

"Weather control is becoming an accomplishment of engineering that will apply to human welfare in summer as in winter, in the south as in the north," the Bureau of Standards declared in describing methods of indoor heating and atmospheric control.

"There is a growing recognition of the importance of controlling the relative humidity of the air, not only in many manufacturing processes and in industrial plants, but also in the home, the office and the auditorium, where considerations of health and comfort are more and more demanding and receiving attention."

While the government studies apply only to "manufacturing of weather for indoor consumption," experts admitted that scientists are going in for outdoor weather control.

Radio an Agency.

Radio, whose miraculous development has led to the conclusion that its scope is almost limitless, may be the agency by which man in the future will make his own weather.

Scientists are studying the influence of the radio wave on the human body; whether or not it can be employed for healing purposes and if there is a probability that broadcasting will bring about a new development in the evolution of physical and mental man.

Experimenters have already hurled explosive shells into the air, hoping to induce rainfall. Other methods of weather control have been attempted by theorists. But it was declared that the use of broadcast electrical energy may become the panacea for blizzards, cyclones, droughts or periods of excessive rain.

Prevent Tornadoes.

Weather experts thought that a powerful radio station might be able to prevent tornadoes which recently wrought such havoc in the middle west by broadcasting certain electrical energy into the areas where the winds were developing.

Use of electrical waves to mobilize rain clouds over drought-smitten areas was another mentioned possibility. Operations of such a system would form one of its most serious economic depressions, would convert the western deserts into productive areas and increase the wealth of the United States by billions.

If experiments in aerial transmission of electrical energy are successful, government experts said, weather control by radio, incredible as it may seem, may yet become an accomplished fact.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

What Is It?

DEATH OF JOHN E. McKENNA.

Death loves a shining mark. The Reaper cut down my venerable friend, John E. McKenna, of Franklin township, June the 10th, aged 87 years. He was ripe in years and in wisdom. He was born on the farm where he died, near Summitville, and his occupation was that of a farmer all his life. Some 56 years ago he married Mary Cavanaugh, who passed away in death in 1900. Of this marriage ten children were born, eight of whom are living, four boys and four girls. There are 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The writer has known the deceased for more than 50 years. He was a man of very strong character. He was not a highly educated man, but nature had given him a bright and active mind, so that his influence was felt by all his acquaintances and he was a leader in all civic affairs in his neighborhood. He was a devoted and active member of the Catholic church at Summitville. In fact he was one of the pillars of the church and one of its founders in the early days of Franklin township. He was an earnest friend of education and was an active member of the noted Silver Ridge Debating club in its balmy days. It was not the intellect alone he wanted improved and developed, but the soul, the spirit of man also. His religious convictions were strong and lasting. He was not bigoted in religious matters, but he believed firmly in the doctrine of Jefferson, that every person should have perfect freedom to worship his maker according to the dictates of his conscience.

The home life of deceased was a model. He loved his home and was devoted to his family. In his last will and testament he shows a fair and generous spirit. He divides his earthly belongings equally among his children. Peace to his memory.

She had expected to be the happiest in all that happy throng, for the man she loved had just asked her to be his wife. And then an accident revealed the startling truth—tarnish—A picture that will sound the depths of your feelings and make you a truer sweetheart when you learn how this trusting girl solved her problem.

Head of Morticians Says Family Should Have Three Children

CHICAGO — Every family in the United States must produce 3-1 children to maintain a stationary population without increase or decrease, according to Harry G. Samson, of the National Selected Morticians.

"Of 1,000 girls born today 788 will marry," Samson said. "This estimate is based on current mortality and marital rates. These 788 women must giveb irth to 1,000 daughters to replace the original 1,000.

"Of 1,000 boys born today only 742 will marry. These 742 must produce 1,000 sons.

Combining the figures, every 1,000 families must produce 1,268 daughters and 1,330 sons, or 2,618 children, if the population is to remain at a stationary level.

"But it must be considered that one marriage in every six produces no children. The burden of child bearing, therefore, must fall on the other five-sixths and those families must bring into the world an average, not of 2 6 but of 3.1 children."

A Spaniard believed to be 116 years old who died recently at San Vincente, had never seen an automobile or train.

CHRYSLER CAR IN FRONT RANK

Manufacturer Becomes Outstanding Figure in Motor Industry.

Since the name, Walter P. Chrysler, through the Chrysler car, first became known to the public, it has grown to a position of commanding importance in the automobile industry. Men competent to judge have since declared that at the rate he is going and the progress his organization is making, he is rapidly establishing himself as the outstanding new figure in the industry. These men go so far as to say that within two years his organization will be recognized as having achieved industrial accomplishments hitherto considered impossible in the manufacture and marketing of quality motor cars.

It is only to the public at large that Walter P. Chrysler is a new figure in the making and merchandising of motor cars. Within the industry he has been known more than a dozen years as one of its leading men. Since he assumed a position of outstanding importance in the nation's largest industry, nearly 2,000,000 cars have been built and sold under his leadership.

Today, at 50, those closest to him say that he and the organization he has gathered about him are only approaching the threshold of their greatest accomplishments. Recent visitors to the Chrysler plants in Detroit report that one of the most amazing happenings in connection with the building of that car is the personal interest taken in all stages of its manufacture by Mr. Chrysler himself.

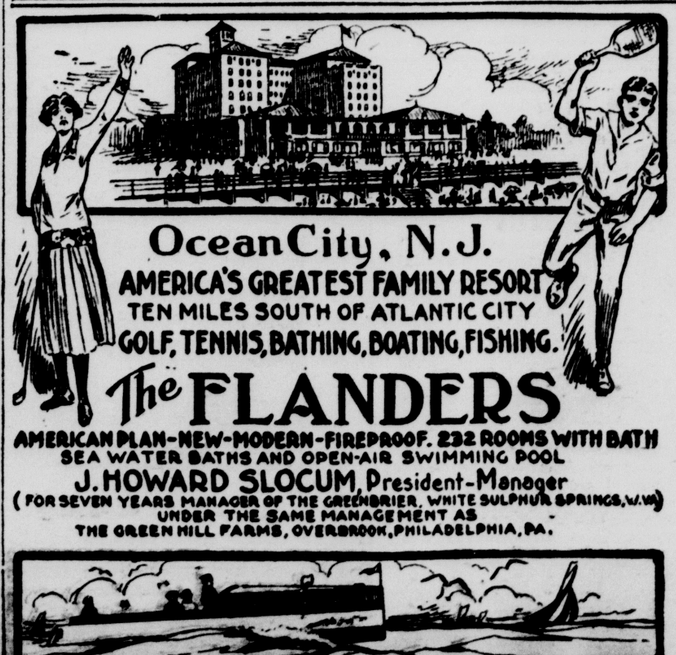

It should be said here, to appreciate the singularity of the man, that the magnitude of his operations and interests is larger than that of any other American, with perhaps a half dozen or ten exceptions.

But visitors who have seen him spend hours at a time about the Chrysler plants are inclined to agree with those closest to him that the Chrysler car holds for him an affection second only to that of his family. Practically every visit he makes to the plants is the occasion for a personal check-up to see that the quality of the Chrysler car not only is maintained, but constantly improved.

His lieutenants insist that a considerable share of the tremendous success of the car has created for itself is due to his personal attitude.

Only a few of those who see articles displayed in store windows of Mexico can read so that the goods are identified by the pictures displayed instead of by name.

Walter P. Chrysler

Motor Car Manufacturer

The name of Walter P. Chrysler has rarely appeared in the public prints except in connection with announcements and events of great significance.

Next Thursday, June 25, Mr. Chrysler will present in this city, a new four-cylinder product destined to eclipse all others in its class.

Head of Morticians Says Family Should Have Three Children

CHICAGO — Every family in the United States must produce 3-1 children to maintain a stationary population without increase or decrease, according to Harry G. Samson, of the National Selected Morticians.

"Of 1,000 girls born today 788 will marry," Samson said. "This estimate is based on current mortality and marital rates. These 788 women must giveb irth to 1,000 daughters to replace the original 1,000.

"Of 1,000 boys born today only 742 will marry. These 742 must produce 1,000 sons.

Combining the figures, every 1,000 families must produce 1,268 daughters and 1,330 sons, or 2,618 children, if the population is to remain at a stationary level.

"But it must be considered that one marriage in every six produces no children. The burden of child bearing, therefore, must fall on the other five-sixths and those families must bring into the world an average, not of 2 6 but of 3.1 children."

CHRYSLER CAR IN FRONT RANK

Manufacturer Becomes Outstanding Figure in Motor Industry.

Since the name, Walter P. Chrysler, through the Chrysler car, first became known to the public, it has grown to a position of commanding importance in the automobile industry. Men competent to judge have since declared that at the rate he is going and the progress his organization is making, he is rapidly establishing himself as the outstanding new figure in the industry. These men go so far as to say that within two years his organization will be recognized as having achieved industrial accomplishments hitherto considered impossible in the manufacture and marketing of quality motor cars.

It is only to the public at large that Walter P. Chrysler is a new figure in the making and merchandising of motor cars. Within the industry he has been known more than a dozen years as one of its leading men. Since he assumed a position of outstanding importance in the nation's largest industry, nearly 2,000,000 cars have been built and sold under his leadership.

Today, at 50, those closest to him say that he and the organization he has gathered about him are only approaching the threshold of their greatest accomplishments. Recent visitors to the Chrysler plants in Detroit report that one of the most amazing happenings in connection with the building of that car is the personal interest taken in all stages of its manufacture by Mr. Chrysler himself.

It should be said here, to appreciate the singularity of the man, that the magnitude of his operations and interests is larger than that of any other American, with perhaps a half dozen or ten exceptions.

But visitors who have seen him spend hours at a time about the Chrysler plants are inclined to agree with those closest to him that the Chrysler car holds for him an affection second only to that of his family. Practically every visit he makes to the plants is the occasion for a personal check-up to see that the quality of the Chrysler car not only is maintained, but constantly improved.

His lieutenants insist that a considerable share of the tremendous success of the car has created for itself is due to his personal attitude.

Report Miners Working.

POMEROY, June.—Mine owners here claimed that the recent visit of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, has not stopped work in mines operating under the 1917 wage scale. They claimed that the next day after Lewis' speech more union miners appeared for work than ever before and said the tonnage of the mines, thus working, has increased.

LAUGHLIN PICNIC DATE SELECTED

Plans have practically been completed for the annual outing of the Homer Laughlin China company employes to be held at Cascade park, New Castle, Pa., Friday, August 7. Committee members worked hard to secure a Saturday date but this had to be abandoned due to the fact that the railroad company could not furnish trains on that day on account of so many week end excursions.

Tentative arrangements call for a diversified program with sport events being given a prominent place on the calendar.

Commissioner Beer stated that a large number of applications for rooming house licenses were rejected because of unsanitary conditions.

Why Thin, Pale Girls Are Unpopular

It is a well-known fact that thin, pale or sallow, poorly-developed girls, with dark circles under the eyes, and who always appear tired and listless, do not attract friends. Yet in thousands of cases these conditions are due merely to the lack of pure, red blood, rich in health-giving iron. By simply getting sufficient iron into their blood, these girls may quickly have the blooming cheeks, ruddy lips and well-rounded forms that make other girls so attractive and so popular.

But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and not the old-fashioned liquid medicines or pills made from mineral iron that often injured the teeth and disturbed the stomach. Nuxated Iron contains organic iron, like the iron in your own blood. Try it for two weeks and notice the strength you gain. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

American Universities Are Heavily Endowed

Washington.—Million-dollar endowments are possessed by 121 American universities, according to figures recently compiled by the Department of the Interior through the Bureau of Education.

Most of these institutions are under private control. State universities as a rule are not heavily endowed, and only 18 of them are in the millionaire class so far as their productive endowments are concerned. Harvard university is the richest educational institution in the United States; its endowment is $53,031,769. Columbia is next, with $41,300,900, and Yale, Leland Stanford, Chicago, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Carnegie, Princeton, Rochester and Pennsylvania follow in the order named.

Harvard is first, too, in the value of buildings, grounds and equipment, for its plant is worth $22,800,000. Yale is a close second, with $21,089,690, and Columbia, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Leland Stanford follow in the list of private institutions.

University of Texas is the wealthiest state university in its endowment, for it has $11,013,028. California follows with $8,407,775; then Washington, Minnesota and Oklahoma, all of which have comfortable permanent funds. In value of property and equipment the University of California holds first place among state universities, with $17,782,539. Minnesota is next with $14,759,642, and Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin follow in close succession.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 7

The Advent of Tea to England

Tea was not used to any extent in England till about the middie of the seventeenth century, although knowledge of the wonderful qualities of the beverage had reached Europe as early as 1517. During the seventeenth century, all tea was imported from China and cost from $25.00 to $50.00 per pound. Not until 1836 did any tea reach England from India. In that year the first shipment was made from the now famous tea growing district of Assam. India today supplies fully half the world's tea requirements and provides some of the finest teas grown. The rich body of "SALADA" is due to the select India teas used in the blend.

WELLS, HASMANN LOSE TO PROS

Drop Exhibition Match to Hagen and Farrell.

J. M. Wells, of East Liverpool, and Eddie Hasmann, of Cleveland, playing against Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, star professionals, lost their match by a score of 6 and 5 yesterday afternoon at the Shaker Heights Country club, Cleveland.

Hagen and Farrell, playing a series of exhibition matches, defeated Bob Shave, of Grantwood, and Larry Nabholtz, of Cedarhurst, Cleveland's two pros who recently played in the national open at Worchester, Mass., 4 and 3, in the morning and came back in the afternoon and trimmed Wells and Hasmann. The matches were held as part of the sport entertainment for the Rotary club convention visitors.

Hagen came within an ace of breaking the course record. As it was he made the 18 holes in 66, equalling the record made by Grange Alves, Acacia club pro, in 1923.

Approximately 1,200 saw Hagen and Farrell take on the two amateurs in the afternoon.

Hagen proceeded to excel his effort of the first round, taking three birdies and playing the other six in par, thus going out in 32, without doubt the best ever recorded for the course. Farrell was two behind him while Hasmann turned in a 38 and Wells a 40. Both Wells and Hasmann got into trouble on the third and seventh holes, each taking a six each. The cards:

The play was much more even on the last nine when Hagen and Farrell each took a 34 and Wells and Hasmann each got a 37. Hagan had a birdie on the tenth and all but got an eagle, being one in one and just missing his first putt by an inch. All four got birdie fours on the fourteenth.

Holds Record Score For Course On Which Meet Will Be Staged

128 Will Qualify for Match Play in Eight Flights; Pro-amateur Best Ball Medal Play Carded for Monday Afternoon; Match Play in Championship Division Will Get Under Way on Wednesday Morning.

Joseph M. Wells, twice champion of Ohio amateur golfers, and present titleholder, playing over the course for which he holds the record, will defend his crown against the cream of Buckeye players in the twenty-second tournament of the Ohio Golf association which will start next Tuesday morning at the Portage Country club, Akron.

There will be eight flights of 16 each, making a total of 128 to qualify for match play. The pro-amateur best ball medal play event will be staged on Monday afternoon, preceding championship play.

The championship flight will include the 32 low scores in the qualifying round; the Ohio Golf association flight the losing 16 in championship flight; the president's flight the third sixteen; Portage Country club flight the fourth sixteen; the Fairlawn Heights Country club flight the fifth sixteen; the Silver Lake Country club flight the sixth sixteen; the Rosemont Country club flight the seventh sixteen; and the Akron district golf association flight the eighth sixteen.

Prizes will include the championship cup, cup for runner-up, medal for low qualifying score, prize for winner and runner-up in each flight; and special prizes for driving, putting and four-man team in the qualifying round.

The pro-amateur event will start at 12:30 Monday afternoon. At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning the qualifying round in championship play will start.

The annual banquet and business meeting of the association will be held on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the club house.

The championship flight will lead off again on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, followed by the others. The third round of the championship flight and second round play in the other flights are scheduled for Thursday. The start of the finals in all flights is carded for Friday.

The new Portage course was designed and built by W. B. Langford in 1917 but on account of the war was not opened for play until two years later. The location is practically the same as that of the original nine hole course execept that through the acquisition of additional forest land, it was possible to add tremendously to the attractiveness of the whole.

The ground is slightly rolling and about half of the holes are cut through heavy woods. From a physical point the course is a very easy one to play and 36 holes a day is no hardship, even in hot weather.

The design and trapping of the green puts a premium on accurate work and the medium length hitter may always hope to stay in the running against a slugging opponent who is slightly off in his direction.

The course record of 67 is held by Joe Wells and was made in competition with Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Emmet French. It was a remarkable round with four "twos" on the card. Vardan, Ray, Mitchel and Duncan have all had their try but somehow or other Portage usually costs a bad hole or two.

TRY OUT SPEED ON MOTORCYCLES

ALTOONA, Pa., June 18. — Fifty thousand cheering spectators who witnessed the spectacular speed duel here at the famous Altoona speedway last Saturday, when Peter DePaolo and Tommy Milton battled for victory in the field of 17 cars of the automobile classic, on July Fourth will again see one of the supreme contests of the speed world when the leading motorcycle racers of the world meet in the national championship on the big bowl here.

With a taste of the thrills of extreme speed on the giant mile and a quarter oval, patrons at the track here from all states all over the east-earn part of the country have requested tickets for the big Independence day classic of the two-wheel mounts, the first revival of this sensational sport since the old Sheepshead Bay course.

With thousands of motorists already making arrangements to attend, the management reported today that they had been requested to make provisions for close to 15,000 motorcyclists alone. These motorcycle clubs from all parts of the United States have made preparations for coming, some of them being forced to ride six days to reach here. Clubs from New Orleans, Dallas, Denver, DesMoines and others equally as far are coming 300 strong each.

Blake not only pitched laudable ball but smote a double in the ninth that gave the Cubs a 5 to 4 verdict over the Phillies.

Net King Nearing End of His Reign, Says Richards

Youthful Star Thinks Tilden's Dominance Over Tennis World is on the Wane.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, June 18.—"I'll beat Tilden as many times this season as he beats me. And one of those times might just as readily come in the national singles as in some obscure invitation tournament."

Vincent Richards declared himself in this manner today in predicting that the 1925 season in lawn tennis will find the almost perennial dominance of William T. Tilden on the wane. He doesn't think Tilden will be champion at the end of the current season.

The writer asked him how he contrived to get that way.

The reply was that he considered Tilden had just edged a step beyond the peak of ability that he knew as champion during the last five years. In brief, that Tilden has slipped.

"It shows in the lack of consistency," Richards said. "He is unbeatable one day and mediocre the next. The Tilden who beat everybody in other seasons was always good If he has one of those bad days at any time during the national championships, he won't even reach the final round."

Richards at this point disclaimed any attempt to act as his own cheer leader.

"I'm not speaking for myself alone," he declared "I'm merely generalizing. Billy Johnston, Dick Williams or some of the newer stars may furnish the man to beat Tilden. Then again, no one may beat him. I merely state that his title is in greater danger now than at anytime since he first gained it in 1920.

"Tilden must beat five good men in a row to win the championship again. In his present form, he doesn't seem capable of maintaining his speed for five successive days."

Asked if he would count on Tilden having a bad day in the event the champion did work his way into the finals, Richards hastened forward with an emphatic negative.

"Tilden is the greatest 'money' player the game ever knew," said he. "If he gets as far as the finals, the chances are very good that he will rise to the emergency."

Tagging The Bases

The Tigers romped like happy children over the corpus delicti of the Yankees, 19 to 1, and a fine time was had by all. In the sixth, fourteen Tigers batted and eleven scored before a man was retired, thirteen scoring in all. Dauss must have been paying an election bet. He held the Yanks to four hits.

Roush's single in the first inning off Bentley sent the Giants to their sixth straight defeat and the Reds to their eleventh victory in the last twelve games. Score 1 to 0. Luque was very niggardly. The Giants' lead was cut thereby to 1½ games.

Again running amuck against rival pitching the Pirates smote Grimes on his salivary gland and gained an 8 to 3 decision over the Dodgers.

Harris pitched the Indians silly and stepped out of character with three hits, the Athletics beating the Indians, 10 to 3. Smith was socked for sixteen hits in the last six innings.

The two Sox divided a double header, Chicago winning the first, 5 to 3, on Faber's pitching, and Boston the second, 7 to 6, on some enthusiastic hitting in the last two innings.

GREYS LAND TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

Hamilton English's Laughlin Greys have knocked over two opponents already this week and will tackle the third on Saturday afternoon.

The Greys disposed of the Cardinals at Maplewood, 8 to 5, on Monday evening, and turned back the Uniques, of the Church league, 9 to 2, on last evening at Columbian park. Verne Bailey pitched a three-hit game.

On Saturday afternoon at 3:15, at Newell, the Greys will clash with the Boyce M. E., of the church loop.

Von Elm at Top Form for Amateur Play in Pittsburgh.

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—George Von Elm, 23-year-old Los Angeles star amateur golfer, who parts his hair in the middle but halves his holes with none, is at the peak of form this season.

Von Elm's consuming ambition is to wrest the amateur title from Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, at the national amateur tourney in Pittsburgh in September, and his critics believe his game this summer forecasts a win for the westerner.

Already this year Von Elm has won three tourneys.

Playing steady, consistent golf, he captured the Southern California open, the Southern California amateur championship and the Northern California open championship during. He is a former Pacific Northwest title holder and Trans-Mississippi champion.

He picks his clubs quickly and once a club is drawn from the bag it stays out.

He steps swiftly to the ball and swings fast. Recently he played the Rancho course here with a record 64 score in less than an hour and a half Ordinarily players require three hours for the Rancho course.

Von Elm walks swiftly while playing golf. This he believes helps to keep him in condition.

The California star often hits the links at 5 o'clock in the morning. Almost all his playing is done early in the day and is always followed by a rubdown. He trains almost as earnestly as a pugilist.

Von Elm does not drink or smoke and follows a careful meal program.

To drink or eat too much or too plentifully of rich food has a decided effect on his game, the youthful star claims.

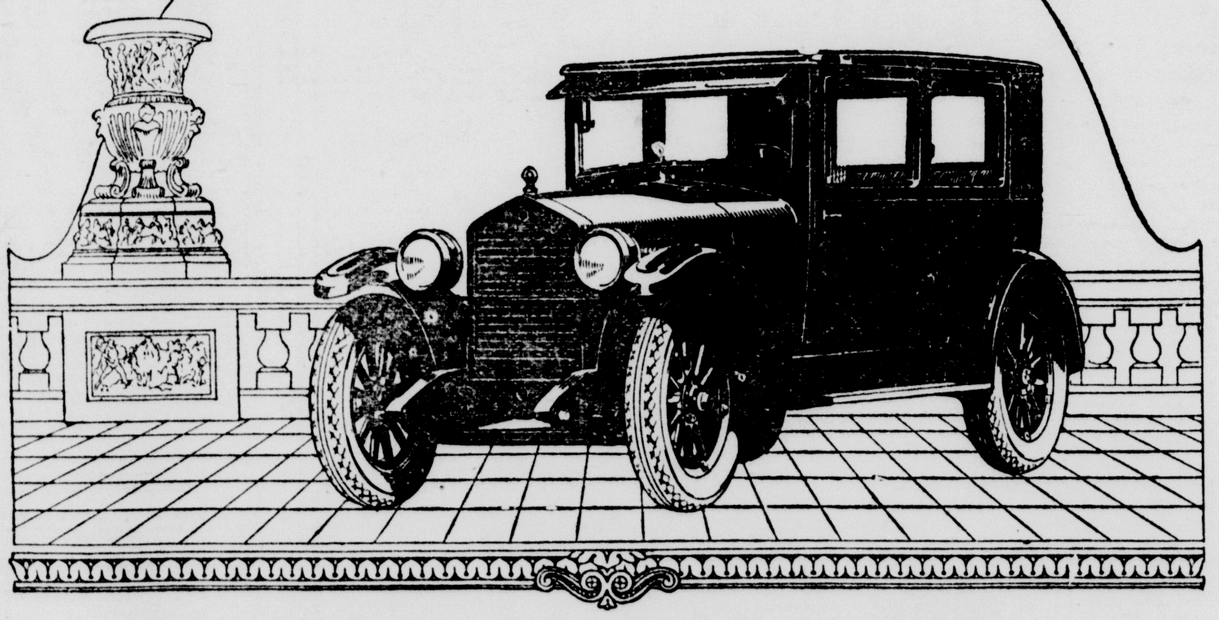

Von Elm is playing his irons with unusual crispness this season.

His friends figure this is his supreme year and that he will give Jones and other stars an extremely hard battle, if he does not come through with the amateur honors.

WELLS, HASMANN LOSE TO PROS

Drop Exhibition Match to Hagen and Farrell.

J. M. Wells, of East Liverpool, and Eddie Hasmann, of Cleveland, playing against Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, star professionals, lost their match by a score of 6 and 5 yesterday afternoon at the Shaker Heights Country club, Cleveland.

Hagen and Farrell, playing a series of exhibition matches, defeated Bob Shave, of Grantwood, and Larry Nabholtz, of Cedarhurst, Cleveland's two pros who recently played in the national open at Worchester, Mass., 4 and 3, in the morning and came back in the afternoon and trimmed Wells and Hasmann. The matches were held as part of the sport entertainment for the Rotary club convention visitors.

Hagen came within an ace of breaking the course record. As it was he made the 18 holes in 66, equalling the record made by Grange Alves, Acacia club pro, in 1923.

Approximately 1,200 saw Hagen and Farrell take on the two amateurs in the afternoon.

Hagen proceeded to excel his effort of the first round, taking three birdies and playing the other six in par, thus going out in 32, without doubt the best ever recorded for the course. Farrell was two behind him while Hasmann turned in a 38 and Wells a 40. Both Wells and Hasmann got into trouble on the third and seventh holes, each taking a six each. The cards:

The play was much more even on the last nine when Hagen and Farrell each took a 34 and Wells and Hasmann each got a 37. Hagan had a birdie on the tenth and all but got an eagle, being one in one and just missing his first putt by an inch. All four got birdie fours on the fourteenth.

Holds Record Score For Course On Which Meet Will Be Staged

128 Will Qualify for Match Play in Eight Flights; Pro-amateur Best Ball Medal Play Carded for Monday Afternoon; Match Play in Championship Division Will Get Under Way on Wednesday Morning.

Joseph M. Wells, twice champion of Ohio amateur golfers, and present titleholder, playing over the course for which he holds the record, will defend his crown against the cream of Buckeye players in the twenty-second tournament of the Ohio Golf association which will start next Tuesday morning at the Portage Country club, Akron.

There will be eight flights of 16 each, making a total of 128 to qualify for match play. The pro-amateur best ball medal play event will be staged on Monday afternoon, preceding championship play.

The championship flight will include the 32 low scores in the qualifying round; the Ohio Golf association flight the losing 16 in championship flight; the president's flight the third sixteen; Portage Country club flight the fourth sixteen; the Fairlawn Heights Country club flight the fifth sixteen; the Silver Lake Country club flight the sixth sixteen; the Rosemont Country club flight the seventh sixteen; and the Akron district golf association flight the eighth sixteen.

Prizes will include the championship cup, cup for runner-up, medal for low qualifying score, prize for winner and runner-up in each flight; and special prizes for driving, putting and four-man team in the qualifying round.

The pro-amateur event will start at 12:30 Monday afternoon. At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning the qualifying round in championship play will start.

The annual banquet and business meeting of the association will be held on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the club house.

The championship flight will lead off again on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, followed by the others. The third round of the championship flight and second round play in the other flights are scheduled for Thursday. The start of the finals in all flights is carded for Friday.

The new Portage course was designed and built by W. B. Langford in 1917 but on account of the war was not opened for play until two years later. The location is practically the same as that of the original nine hole course execept that through the acquisition of additional forest land, it was possible to add tremendously to the attractiveness of the whole.

The ground is slightly rolling and about half of the holes are cut through heavy woods. From a physical point the course is a very easy one to play and 36 holes a day is no hardship, even in hot weather.

The design and trapping of the green puts a premium on accurate work and the medium length hitter may always hope to stay in the running against a slugging opponent who is slightly off in his direction.

The course record of 67 is held by Joe Wells and was made in competition with Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Emmet French. It was a remarkable round with four "twos" on the card. Vardan, Ray, Mitchel and Duncan have all had their try but somehow or other Portage usually costs a bad hole or two.

TRY OUT SPEED ON MOTORCYCLES

ALTOONA, Pa., June 18. — Fifty thousand cheering spectators who witnessed the spectacular speed duel here at the famous Altoona speedway last Saturday, when Peter DePaolo and Tommy Milton battled for victory in the field of 17 cars of the automobile classic, on July Fourth will again see one of the supreme contests of the speed world when the leading motorcycle racers of the world meet in the national championship on the big bowl here.

With a taste of the thrills of extreme speed on the giant mile-and-a-quarter oval, patrons at the track here from all states all over the east-earn part of the country have requested tickets for the big Independence day classic of the two-wheel mounts, the first revival of this sensational sport since the old Sheepshead Bay course.

With thousands of motorists already making arrangements to attend, the management reported today that they had been requested to make provisions for close to 15,000 motorcyclists alone. These motorcycle clubs from all parts of the United States have made preparations for coming, some of them being forced to ride six days to reach here. Clubs from New Orleans, Dallas, Denver, DesMoines and others equally as far are coming 300 strong each.

Blake not only pitched laudable ball but smote a double in the ninth that gave the Cubs a 5 to 4 verdict over the Phillies.

Net King Nearing End of His Reign, Says Richards

Youthful Star Thinks Tilden's Dominance Over Tennis World is on the Wane.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, June 18.—"I'll beat Tilden as many times this season as he beats me. And one of those times might just as readily come in the national singles as in some obscure invitation tournament."

Vincent Richards declared himself in this manner today in predicting that the 1925 season in lawn tennis will find the almost perennial dominance of William T. Tilden on the wane. He doesn't think Tilden will be champion at the end of the current season.

The writer asked him how he contrived to get that way.

The reply was that he considered Tilden had just edged a step beyond the peak of ability that he knew as champion during the last five years. In brief, that Tilden has slipped.

"It shows in the lack of consistency," Richards said. "He is unbeatable one day and mediocre the next. The Tilden who beat everybody in other seasons was always good. If he has one of those bad days at any time during the national championships, he won't even reach the final round."

Richards at this point disclaimed any attempt to act as his own cheer leader.

"I'm not speaking for myself alone," he declared. "I'm merely generalizing. Billy Johnston, Dick Williams or some of the newer stars may furnish the man to beat Tilden. Then again, no one may beat him. I merely state that his title is in greater danger now than at anytime since he first gained it in 1920.

"Tilden must beat five good men in a row to win the championship again. In his present form, he doesn't seem capable of maintaining his speed for five successive days."

Asked if he would count on Tilden having a bad day in the event the champion did work his way into the finals, Richards hastened forward with an emphatic negative.

"Tilden is the greatest 'money' player the game ever knew," said he. "If he gets as far as the finals, the chances are very good that he will rise to the emergency."

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Flies Enjoy Gas Test, Professor Almost Dies

London.—The efforts of a brilliant young scientist to discover a poison gas powerful enough to destroy flies nearly had fatal effects—for the scientist. The flies seemed to like the particular gas he tried, and were none the worse for the experience, but it was touch and go for the experimentor.

The scientific world and the general public are partly amused, partly alarmed, over the incident, which occurred at the famous national research institute at South Kensington, for the rash scientist confessed that the gas he was experimenting with was sufficiently potent to lay the whole human population of London dead in the street, or in their homes, if disseminated in large enough quantities. But it didn't worry the flies.

The gas is called colloquially "Lewisite"—its official name is "monophenyldechlorasine," and according to experts it was a good thing for the Germans that they gave up the world war, November, 1918, because the allies were going to "issue" it to them as a war draught early in 1919. It is said to be based on an American preparation.

Harold Maxwell Lefroy, the hero of the incident, is professor of entomology at the Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, and although only forty-eight, he has a great reputation among European scientists.

By the use of a newly perfected machine 1,000 fountain pen barrels are turned out every minute.

Steeplejack Lives Through Tornado on 125-Foot Tower

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June.—Al Johnson, professional steeplejack, from California, clung like a leach to the top of the 125-foot water tower at the Stockyards here during a recent near tornado that swept this city, injuring fourteen persons and causing a property loss of about $250,.

For five minutes the wind blew with a velocity of ninety-five miles an hour. Johnson held on to his precarious perch, although his cap blew off and his shirt-tails were whipped out.

"First time I was ever afraid in my life," was the way Johnson described his experience after the squall subsided.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Flies Enjoy Gas Test, Professor Almost Dies

London.—The efforts of a brilliant young scientist to discover a poison gas powerful enough to destroy flies nearly had fatal effects—for the scientist. The flies seemed to like the particular gas he tried, and were none the worse for the experience, but it was touch and go for the experimentor.

The scientific world and the general public are partly amused, partly alarmed, over the incident, which occurred at the famous national research institute at South Kensington, for the rash scientist confessed that the gas he was experimenting with was sufficiently potent to lay the whole human population of London dead in the street, or in their homes, if disseminated in large enough quantities. But it didn't worry the flies.

The gas is called colloquially "Lewisite"—its official name is "monaphenyldechlorasine," and according to experts it was a good thing for the Germans that they gave up the world war, November, 1918, because the allies were going to "issue" it to them as a war draught early in 1919. It is said to be based on an American preparation.

Harold Maxwell Lefroy, the hero of the incident, is professor of entomology at the Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, and although only forty-eight, he has a great reputation among European scientists.

By the use of a newly perfected machine 1,000 fountain pen barrels are turned out every minute.

Steeplejack Lives Through Tornado on 125-Foot Tower

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June.—Al Johnson, professional steeplejack, from California, clung like a leach to the top of the 125-foot water tower at the Stockyards here during a recent near tornado that swept this city, injuring fourteen persons and causing a property loss of about $250,.

For five minutes the wind blew with a velocity of ninety-five miles an hour. Johnson held on to his precarious perch, although his cap blew off and his shirt-tails were whipped out.

"First time I was ever afraid in my life," was the way Johnson described his experience after the squall subsided.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

We recommend Othine Complexion Soap for use with Othine, also as a shampoo—it's wonderful for bobbed hair—25c a cake at all drug or department stores or by mail. Othine Laboratories, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE DEAD

TODAY

One Chinese, One European.
Two Ladies Die.
A 5-Mile Bookshelf.
50,000,000 He Didn't Own.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The Chinese learn from our civilization, and much to the annoyance of Europeans they now demand the life of one European for every native Chinese slain by Europeans.

Western nations, with their own courts established on Chinese soil, their special diplomatic and other quarters, have been using their own judgment in China.

When they thought things were going badly, they sent soldiers and machine guns ashore, and when it was over, it was often necessary to pick up a few dead Chinese.

The atmosphere will change and perhaps clear up, if the Chinese live up to their statement that every Chinaman shot down must have his European mate to accompany him to the happy hunting grounds.

One lady, tired of life, killed herself in New York and left all her money to her first husband, whom she had divorced. She cut off her husband without a penny, her last letter saying how kind the first husband had been to her.

Warning to wives as their eyes turn toward Paris sometimes you are very well off and do not realize it.

Woman's strange nature, too deep for man, appears in the last wishes of another American woman, a suicide in Paris. The lady, unmarried, left orders to have a large bouquet of roses put in her arms as she lay dead, ordered an ebony coffin with silver handles, and wished to be buried, "in my rose colored satin gown, and to have on my earrings and bracele's and silver purse; I want my hair pinned up and arranged gracefully."

The rashly importunate lady who had lyt all taste for her American compatriots, wrote: "I want no American doctors, nor any Americans, for that matter, to touch me," and she forbade all religious service at her funeral.

That's the strange part. If you don't believe you are going to rise again, exactly as you went to sleep in death, what's the use of putting on your rose-colored satin gown and your earrings? You don't dress for the worms.

Nobody understands the female heart, not even a Frenchman.

MONDELL URGES TAX SLASHING

Suggests Reduction of Rate on Great Incomes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 18.—Another blow in the government's campaign to mould public opinion favorable to a slashing reduction of high taxes on great incomes was delivered here today by Frank W. Mondell, of the United States war finance corporation, in an address to the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association.

Mondell expressed confidence in the ability of congress to bring about tax reform that will relieve American business from its present difficulties, asked that the legislative establishment consider carefully the views of those who have made careful studies of this economic question.

"I think congress will make the necessary reductions, but it is entitled to be assured of support in bringing about this reform," Mondell said.

"Thanks to the administration's policy of economy we shall be able to further reduce the sum total of federal taxes.

"We should wipe out the remaining nuisance taxes born of the war.

"We should, if possible, bring about some reduction of the corporation taxes.'

WISCONSIN SENATOR IS CLAIMED BY HEART DISEASE AT CAPITAL

Sudden Turn for Worse Follows Fiery Independent Republican Leader's Illness From Asthma.

FAMILY PRESENT WHEN END COMES

Statesman, 70 Years Old Last Sunday, Has Been in Failing Health Since His Presidential Campaign.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Senator Robert Marion La Follette of Wisconsin, independent Republican leader and candidate for the presidency last year, died at his home here today. He was 70 years old.

Death was caused by heart disease, complicated by recurcuring attacks of bronchial asthma and pneumonia.

La Follette had been in failing health since the close of his campaign in November, but was taken seriously ill last Friday, and all members of his family were summoned here.

They were at his bedside when the end came at 1:25 p. m. today.

Kin at His Bedside.

La Follette's condition took a turn for the worse yesterday, but his physician, Dr. C. C. Marbury, did not despair of his ultimate recovery. This morning, however, after a good night, the senator suddenly became gravely ill and Dr. S. M. Randolph, a heart specialist, was called into consultation.

Mrs. La Follette, the widow, and Robert M. La Follette Jr., who have been with the senator here since he was confined to bed three weeks ago. His youngest son, Philip La Follette, district attorney at Madison, Wis., arrived here yesterday. This morning George Middleton of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sucker of Washington, joined the little family group at the La Follette home on Wyoming avenue.

La Follette's Career

After serving as district attorney in Wisconsin for four years, he was a member of congress from 1885 to 1891, governor of Wisconsin from 1901 to 1907, and has served since in the United States senate, always playing a lone hand, while remaining nominally a member of the Republican party. His present term would have expired on March 4, 1927.

GIRL, 17, FACES PRISON TERM FOR HOMICIDE

COLLAPSES AGAIN

Convicted of Killing Admirer in New York Home.

NEW YORK, June 18. — Dorothy Perkins, 17-year old telephone operator, convicted of first degree manslaughter for the murder of Tommy Templeton, her admirer, faced a 10 to 20-year prison sentence as she sobbed in her cell today in Jefferson Market prison.

The blonde, bobbed-haired Dorothy, the youngest woman ever tried for murder in New York state, was reported to be in a highly nervous condition, following her series of collapses during the trial.

When the jury returned their verdict shortly before midnight, Dorothy fainted in the arms of her lawyer. She was carried from the court room, crying:

"Mamma, Mamma, oh, Mamma!"

Four of the jurors favored a first degree murder verdict, it was learned. No juror advocated acquittal, but one suggested a recommendation for mercy based on the youth of the accused which was rejected by the other jurors.

Judge Condemns Crime.

"There have been too many shootings by women," said Judge McIntyre in discharging the jury. "This verdict may stop women from shooting men in the future."

The jury returned their verdict a few minutes before midnight last night after deliberating two hours and 41 minutes.

"Dotty didn't get a fair trial," Mrs. Rudolph Perkins, mother of Dorothy, declared today. "We're just poor people, so we didn't have a chance."

49-DAY TIE-UP OF CARPENTERS UNCHANGED AS STRIKERS MEET

EXPLAIN STAND

Statement Shows High Wage Scale in Effect Here.

Today, forty-ninth day of the tieup, witnessed no change in the strike of 135 East Liverpool district carpenters who walked out on May 21, when contractors refused to grant their demand for a wage increase from $10 to $11 a day.

A meeting of the strikers is scheduled to be held tonight, but whether steps looking toward a settlement of the differences shall be taken is problematical, it is said today.

Contractors as well as carpenters are standing pat. The employers today reiterated their willingness to renew the old scale or to arbitrate the wage dispute, with the understanding that the present $10 a day scale shall be the minimum award.

Contractors' Statement.

A representative of the contractors issued the following statement in explanation of the attitude of the employers:

"A study of wage scales in the building trades in American cities affords some interesting light on the present situation in East Liverpool, where carpenters are striking for an increase from the present rate of $1.25 an hour, or $10.000 a day, to $1.37½ an hour, an increase of $1.00 a day. The maintenance of the present scale has not been in question, contractors being perfectly willing to continue paying at this rate; in fact, the contractors, in repeatedly proferring arbitration of the dispute, have consistently agreed that in event of arbitration it should be on the basis of mutual agreement that no award should be considered of less than $10, the present scale.

"East Liverpool carpenters have been receiving, on the present scale, $2.00 a day more than carpenters in Akron. At the same rate of $1.00 an hour, carpenters in Dayton and Columbus, too, are paid $2.00 a day less than those in East Liverpool.

Comparison of Wage Scales.

"Carpenters here, it also appears, are better paid than those in Chicago, where the scale varies from $1.15 to $1.25, as compared to a flat hourly rate of $1.25 here. Philadelphia carpenters are working for $1.12½ an hour, and those in Boston for $1.10, both considerably less than East Liverpool carpenters receive. These figures are of especial interest in view of the government records showing that Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia are three of the most expensive cities in this country in which to live."

KIWANIS HEARS T. O. TRESCOTT

Ideals of Organization Discussed by Ravenna School Chief.

The Kiwanis ideal of service was lauded by Prof. T. O. Trescott, superintendent of schools at Ravenna, and president of the Ravenna Kiwanis club at the noon meeting of the local club in the Larkin's annex, Market street, today.

About 50 members and their guests attended the meeting. A book of gasoline coupons, furnished by Frank Jones, of the Ohio Valley Oil company, constituted the attendance prize and was awarded to Ross Tisher, wharfmaster.

Two communications were read by Secretary H. D. Hoffman relative to the resolution recently adopted by the club, requesting the repairs of the paving in front of the St. Clair avenue entrance to Riverview cemetery. One communication was from the traction company and the other from the Riverview Cemetery association.

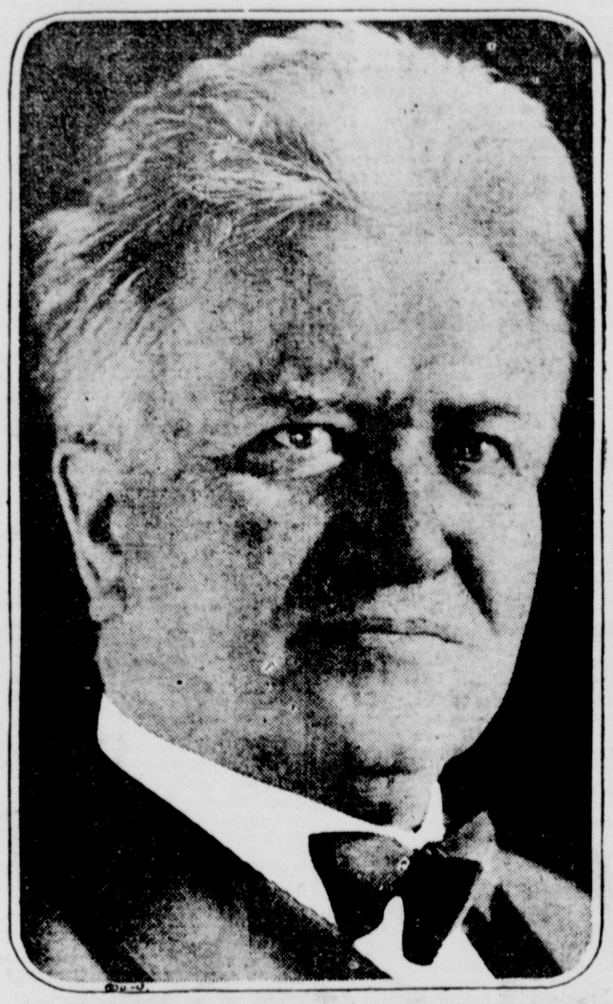

Fred George was appointed delegate from the local club to attend a meeting to be held at Lisbon, Thursday, June 25, when the proposition of inoculating dairy herds will be discussed. A committee was named to draw up resolutions of respect for the late Thomas B. Anderson, a member of the club.

Prof Trescott voiced a plea of tolerance in his address.

Three Disabled Vets, Enroute to Maine In Auto, Stop Here

Enroute from Galveston, Texas, to Portland, Maine, three disabled ex-service men, traveling in an automobile, stopped off in East Liverpool for a few hours today.

The car, which was parked on Market street near Fifth street, was decorated with automobile license plates, motor club emblems, metal plates of various cities and towns through which they have passed, old style guns and other weapons, convention badges and similar articles. The automobile attracted considerable attention.

The members of the party are C. J. Watson, Flint, Mich., owner of the machine; Thomas McCoy, New York, and Lon Gibson of Charlestone, W. Va. Expenses during the trip are paid through the sale of postcards bearing a picture of the car.

The tourists sleep in the machine and eat their meals along the roadside. They have been on the road for about two months and plan to reach their destination in time for a Fourth of July celebration. They came to this city from Steubenville. Their next stop will be Youngstown.

DR. L. W. TUCKER CLOSES WEEK'S MEET TONIGHT

Bible Chart Lecturer at First U. P. Church.

MORALS TOPIC

Discusses Part Satan is Playing in World.

The part that Satan is and has been playing in the world was emphasized by Dr. Leon W. Tucker, of New York city in his second talk on the book of Revelations during his present engagement at the First Baptist church, Fifth street, last evening.

Announcement was made that the final appearance of Dr. Tucker and his party will be at the First United Presbyterian church so that added seating capacity may be procured.

Particularly pertinent to parents and young people, it was stated, will be the last discourse of Dr Tucker. His subject will engross present day morals and their relation to the home. His theme will be "The Social and Sex Situation in The Light of God."

Another appealing musical program preceded and followed the speaking of Dr. Tucker. Miss Allie May Schmidt sang, by request, "The Holy City" and "In the Land Where the Flowers Never Fade." Both were accompanied by harp and violin.

Miss Evelyn McKee Coons charmed her hearers again with a harp number, and Miss Cora Bell Young equally appealed with a lullaby from Hanes on the violin. All three were given generous applause.

The invocation was made by Dr.

Panic is Threatened Among Insane Patients as Nurses Act.

LOSS IS $3,500

Physician and Wife are Victims of Blaze.

TOLEDO, June 18.—Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Hill were burned, the latter seriously, and the lives of 100 patients were endangered in a fire in the women's ward at the Toledo state hospital here today.

The fire originated in the living room of Dr. Hill's quarters, and was caused by a short circuit in a radio set.

Mrs. Hill was severely burned. Her hair was burned close to her head when her night clothes caught fire. Her condition is serious. Dr. Hill is suffering from burns on the hands and arms received while extinguishing the blaze which threatened his wife.

A panic threatened among the insane patients and nurses removed 35 on the second floor to places of safety in cottages on the grounds.

Fast work by the fire department confined the fire to the therapy ward. The loss was estimated at $3,500.

COPS MAY GET TEAR GAS CLUB

Demonstration at City Hall Causes Hurried Exit.

The purchase of a police club, containing tear gas bombs, said to be used in many of the large cities in breaking up riots and forcing the surrender of fugitives is being considered here today following a demonstration at the city hall.

Before nearly a dozen of city officials, including Mayor Brown, Chief of Police McDermott, members of city council and other citizens, Joseph Williams, Jr., a representative of the Federal Laboratories Sales company, of Pittsburgh, gave a demonstration in the use of the club. Within a few minutes after the club had been wielded, the air in the mayor's office was filled with a gas, causing witnesses to hurry down-stairs and out into the air to escape being blinded.

The chemicals, commonly known as tear gas, affects the eyes, and within less than a minute, causes total blindness. The gas, however, leaves no permanent ill effects.

Williams gave another demonstration of the use of the gas at the Edwards hotel, to a group of spectators, last evening. He plans to stage a similar exhibition today in one of the banks, if permission is given.

Police Hold Auto Until James Lamp Pays Liquor Fine

The police today are holding an automobile, belonging to James Lamp, of Dixonville, pending the payment of a $300 fine, assessed against him by Mayor Charles Brown last evening, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of having utensils used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in his possession.

Lamp was arrested at his home by Patrolman Norman McFarland. A still and a small quantity of intoxicating liquors were confiscated. Lamp, in entering a plea of guilty, declared that he was heavily in debt and was making and selling liquor to pay his bills.

A charge of illegally possessing intoxicating liquors has been filled against Roy Fullmer, of Second street. Special Officer Dawson and Turnkey William Cline were called to Fullmer's home by his wife, last night, upon a complaint that he was raising a disturbance. Before the police arrived Fullmer fled to Midland. A half pint of liquor was found in the house.

STATE RESTS ITS CASE AGAINST JOSIAH KIRBY IN CLEVELAND COURT

CLEVELAND, June 18.—The State of Ohio rested its case against Josiah Kirby today and Chief Defense Attorney Luther Day immediately requested that Judge Fred H. Wolf, Wauseon, O., direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Day declared in his argument that the State had failed to prove a single violation of the law on Kirby's part. "There is no evidence in the record to warrant the submission of this case to a jury," declared Day.

After Walter Meals, former appellate judge, another of Kirby's attorneys, makes his plea for a directed verdict this afternoon, Judge Wolf will take the matter under advisement and make a ruling Friday. There will not be any evidence put on by the defense until the ruling is made and the jury will be excused in the mean time.

Day cited case after case and many

MOYER BROTHERS' CARRY BUSINESS BLOCK FIGHT TO HIGHER COURT

Seek Reversal of Common Pleas Judge in Application Against Mrs. May Wasby.

Moyer Brothers, Fifth street, dry goods firm, has appealed the decision of the common pleas court at Lisbon in dismissing the temporary injunction, restraining Mrs. May Wasby from erecting a one-story business building on the site of the three-story structure razed by fire February 22, last.

The case is being heard before the Columbiana county appellate court, meeting in Cleveland today. The plaintiff is represented by Lones, Hill & Davidson, while Brookes & Thompson are counsel for the defendant.

The temporary injunction, prohibiting Mrs. Wasby from erecting a one-story building, was granted at Lisbon early in May. About two weeks ago Mrs. Wasby's attorneys filed an action to have the injunction dismissed which Judge J. G. Moore granted.

The Moyer Brothers claim they have a lease on the property and that a one-story structure, as the owner contemplates, will not be large enough to meet their requirements.

DR. C. C. FAIMAN HITS SHEPHERD AS WITNESS IN "GERM MURDER"

STAR ON STAND

Accused Hears University Officer Tell Damaging Story.

CHICAGO, June 18.—"I had some tubes of bacteria. Shepherd asked me if he could have them and I told him he could—I could get more. They didn't cost me anything. He asked me if I knew of any instance of bacteria being used for criminal purposes.

William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock, sat in the criminal court today and heard, in these words, the most damaging testimony scored against him.

Dr. Charles C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences, star of the prosecution, was on the stand, called as a court witness.

Corroborates Salesman

Corroborating the testimony of John F. Marchand, a salesman for his school, Faiman, beads of perspiration appearing on his forehead, told of receiving a letter from Shepherd, and of sending Marchand to see him Then he told of subsequent dealings with Shepherd.

Shepherd, he said, came to the university laboratory asking further information concerning courses in bacteriology He was shown apparatus and bacteria cultures, Faiman testified, and appeared very much interested.

"He (Shepherd) told me he had an adopted son, that he was guardian of the boy, and I told him it was nice for him as he did not have any of his own," Faiman declared. "He said the boy was worth a lot of money—probably one or two million, and he told me his name was Billy. I asked him how old he was and he said he was becoming of age. I told him it would put him in sort of a bad fix to lose him when he became of age.

Asked About Laxatives.

"I asked him if he arranged any will for him and he said that he had arranged his will—that he could do practically as he wanted with it. I told him it was very fortunate for him to have an adopted son, especially one with a lot of money.

"About the middle of October, Shepherd called me up and made an appointment. He told me he had his plans all arranged to prepare typhoid cultures and put them in water.

"I told him that was about the only way one could anywhere be sure of an infection."

Faiman said Shepherd asked him about laxatives and how they affected a patient, and Faiman said he told him they would affect the patient adversely.

Promised $100,000, He Says.

Later, Faiman said, Shepherd came out to the university and asked if Faiman kept any records. "I told him only letter files and pointed them out to him. He went to the files and took out the letter. I said I ought to be getting something out of this and he gave me $50 for the letter. Then I said we ought to get down to some definite arrangements. I said I thought I ought to get a fourth, and he said it was too much. Then he agreed on a hundred thousand dollars."

A couple of weeks later, Faiman said, Shepherd called him up and made an appointment. At the meeting Shepherd said Billy had taken sick and said he had given Billy the cathartic.

Faiman said he did not hear from Shepherd again until after Billy was buried and then Shepherd called up to say he was leaving the city for a few weeks.

"Then things began to come out in the paper and he came back from the south," said Faiman. "He called me up and I told him I was getting scared. He said there was nothing to worry about."

While a court room crowded almost to suffocation waited patiently in expectation of "fireworks," counsel for the defense argued before Judge Lynch to forestall Faiman being called by the court.

Judge Lynch finally ruled that Faiman would be called as a court witness and the court would conduct the direct examination. Judge questioned Faiman about his transaction with Shepherd.

miles of war books will be condensed by historical writers, 20 years from now?

The entire five miles of books might be boiled down to this:

"In 1914 the Germans, foolishly living under the rule of a kaiser, allowed themselves to be led into a war. It seemed disastrous at first, but the losses were soon more than made up by the prosperity of the German republic."

Investigators for the United States government alleged that an able young man named Livermore sold 50,000,000 bushels of wheat that he didn't own.

This selling, "dumping wheat on the market," of course, knocked down the price. It was just one gamble among many for the plunger selling short. It was something different for the farmers.

It is said that the government will take "firm regulatory measures." That's pleasing news, if those measures amount to anything, and they probably won't.

If a man can sell 50,000,000 bushels of something he doesn't own, never saw, and makes perhaps $25,000,000 in a few days, he has more influence sometimes than the farmer that has raised 1,000 bushels of wheat by the sweat of his brow.

The Mexican question agitates this country, and bothered the stock speculators for a while yesterday. There is no need for agitation. We are not going to have any quarrel with the Mexicans. The people of the United States have only the friendliest feeling for Mexico.

Americans feel that they are fortunate in having good neighbors, north and south, and they don't intend to do anything to jeopardize that situation.

Those that resent Calles' rejoinder to the United States note should bear in mind that what Calles said to us is about what we should have said to Calles had we received a note of complaint such as he received.

It isn't a question about the justness of the complaint. A nation don't like to be criticised.

German scientists, led by a woman, Dr. Ida Tacke, have discovered two more "elements," leaving only three to be discovered. A great scientist, Mendeleef, demonstrated long ago that 95 elements make up all the substances that we see on earth, in the air, under the earth and under the waters and everything that the spectroscope reveals in the universe around us.

Everything in this entire universe, from the giant sun, Aldabaran, to the claw of a field mouse, is made of a mixture of only "95 different elements," and that is amazing.

The moderation league reports that drinking "in the south" has increased 120 per cent in 34 cities under prohibition.

Why pick out the south? There is no more drinking there than elsewhere. In any part of the United States you can drink as much as you like. The only trouble is that what you drink in the way of whisky is a little worse poison than it used to be.

Lecture on Satan.

"Despite the fact that Satan is the author of death, disease, sorrow, sin, demolition, degeneration and degeneracy, I never speak carelessly or flippantly of him," asserted Dr. Tucker. "For once he was an exalted personage before his pride moved him to err and later fall."

"Only the Lord Himself can attend to Satan," he said. "He saw him following his rebellion 'fall from heaven as lightning' to the earth and here become the source of all iniquity and moral disorder."

Dr. Tucker declared the experience of Satan succinctly proved the truthfulness of the assertion "he that exalteth himself shall be abased."

That the Revelations indicate the coming to earth of "the beast"—the man of sin and "the false prophet"—the ecclesiastical apostasy was, he affirmed, certain.

In a discussion of the world flux and the part taken in it by Premier Mussolini, of Italy, Dr. Tucker, who witnessed the entrance into Rome of the Fascisti on the memorable day that preceded their taking over the government, paid the Italian people a tribute.

"The men of Italy are the handsomest in all Europe, their women and children the most beautiful and their mothers the most wonderful anywhere. Do not misjudge Italians. They are a great race. They are a superior minded people. There is a Galli-Curci in every Italian theater and a Caruso on every street corner."

"But despite all this there are sore spots in Rome which situation is equaled elsewhere as evidence by the declaration recently in the French chamber of deputies that 'Europe is standing on feet of clay.' The prophet Daniel said the same thing. All these things are but a part of the great judgment which John in his Revelations maintained would come to pass."

Dr. Tucker averred that vast hordes of demons inhabit sections immediately above the earth and they are organized. Twice, he said, Jesus Christ passed through them, the first time to come to earth in this humiliation and the second time in His exaltation as He asscended to heaven.

All the false doctrines so prominent at this time he declared to be in line with the attempt to envelop the world in ignorance and sin.

That the Son of man is also due, he unhesitatingly declared, and "He will judge the world in righteousness and equity," he said.

Dr. Tucker again made use of a large chart by which he pointed out the connecting truths of the last volume in the holy canonical Scriptures.

tee on manufacturers, Senator La Follette sponsored the resolution which led to the famous senate oil investigations, which have culminated in criminal indictments against Ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, Harry F Sinclair and E. L Doheny. He was also the ranking Republican member of the committees on interstate commerce and finance and could have been the chairman of either had it not been for his refusal to "play ball" with the Republican leaders in the senate.

The climax of La Follette's career came a year ago when he definitely broke with the regular Republican organization, established a new independent party with the support of the Conference for Progressive Political Action and the American Federation of Labor. He waged a hard campaign but fell before the combined attack of the Republican and Democrats and succeeded in carrying no territory except his home state of Wisconsin.

Tentative plans of Mrs. La Follette and her sons were that simple funeral services would be held here tomorrow or Saturday and that the body would then be taken to Madison, Wis., for burial.

Fighting Independent.

Few men have left a deeper imprint upon the politics and government of their time than Robert Marion La Follette—a Republican by name, but a fiery, fighting independent by preference.

The nickname of "Fighting Bob" La Follette was no idle jest—it was real, as any number of Old Guard Republicans will ruefully testify.

La Follette's whole life, from the time he was a spindle-shanked, somewhat sickly boy in Wisconsin, until the time he expired in the corpulency of old age, was one of unceasing struggle for the things in which he believed. Many people did not agree with him or his policies, but few, if any, ever questioned his sincerity for the loyalty which he gave without stint to the cause of progressivism in American politics.

Varied Career.

He had a career that was unparalleled in the politics of his time. He tasted the rarified atmosphere of the upper heights of popular favor, but he also drank deep of the bitter dregs of disfavor. So bitter were they that at one time, when the nation was being swept with successive waves of war hysteria, a resolution of expulsion was introduced in the senate because he had dared to speak his mind about the war. The resolution came to naught, and in his later life, La Follette always felt that vindication had been his.

La Follette was born in Primrose township, Dane county, Wisconsin, on June 14, 1855. It may have been that La Follette's hatred of war was engendered in his boyhood, for in his adolescence the horrors of the Civil war became deeply impressed upon his mind.

La Follette came of good American stock—Indiana and Kentucky settlers, who had braved the wilderness and had fought in the conflict between the states.

Born on Farm.

Like so many other prominent men of his time, he was born on a farm and acquired an early knowledge with and sympathy for the men who wrest their living from the soil. He always had wanted to be a lawyer, and so at 24, after a hard struggle, he graduated from the University of Wisconsin. A year later, in 1880, he was admitted to the bar and hung out his shingle in his home community of Madison, Wis. At that time, as he relates in his autobiography, he had a mother and a sister to support and was himself engaged to be married.

La Follette's entry into politics came that same year. He was a thin, small youth of 25, who had a distinguished record in the university for oratory, but little else. He cast his eye on the district attorneyship of Dane county, in which is located the university.

La Follette described his entry into politics humorously in his book, "A Personal Narrative of Personal Experiences." Having decided he would like to be district attorney, he proceeded to go after the position by personally soliciting the support of the farmers, students and people of the community. At that time, he confesses in his book, the principal attraction was the $800 yearly salary the job paid.

The boss of Dane county at that particular time was one Colonel E. W. Keyes, the postmaster at Madison. For some time, La Follette relates, Colonel Keyes suffered him to continue his canvass of the voters, seeking support for his candidacy, and then Keyes summoned him to the postoffice.

Defied Boss.

"He told me I was wasting my time," said La Follette. "He also told me the name of the next District Attorney of Dane County—and his name was not La Follette."

He made the youngster mad, it appeared, and from that time on La Follette was insurgent. La Follette continued his canvass among the Swedes and Norwegians he knew so well, with the result that on election day he made an astonishing run and beat the machine by the narrow margin of 23 votes. He held the office for four years and then decided he wanted a broader field and came to congress—a stripling of 30 years.

He served in congress for three terms and then went back to the State, "disgusted," as he himself phrased it, by the manner in which things were done in Washington. He thought he could accomplish more good in the State than in the vast machinery of congress and national life, where he was only a small cog.

For ten years then La Follette practiced law and directed the progressive movement in his State—out of office. Then, in 1901, he ran for the governorship and was elected. He served in all thre terms, making a progressive record that gave birth to the much-mooted "Wisconsin idea,' so talked of some years ago. Railroad reform was his particular hobby, and he made the roads of his State sweat blood.

He resigned from the governorship finally and in 1905 came to the United States Senate, where he has been continually in the forefront of progressive fights.

Always Candidate.

From 1908 on, La Follette was always a candidate for the precidency, and always he received Wisconsin's vote in the national conventions.

La Follette had real aspirations in 1908. He had a remarkable record as a progressive governor of Wisconsin. Roosevelt was retiring and La Follette did not like the idea of T. R. nominating his own successor—which he did in the person of William Howard Taft. He swallowed his disappointment, however, and struggled on through the very conservative years of the Taft administration, alway holding aloft the torchlight of Progressivism.

Again in 1912, the year of the Republican split, he felt he had a chance. But the powers in his party were fearful of him—he was too progressive—and again he was disappointed.

There are enemies of La Follette who say that these successive disappointments were responsible for much of La Follette's so-called radicalism. But his friends deny this with considerable warmth and point to his undeviating progressive record of a lifetime as refutation of the charge that he was a Progressive because he was resentful.

Opposed War.

Came the war and the hysteria that accompanied it. La Follette was opposed to it and he threw all his magnificent ability into the cause of keeping the United States out of it. He was one of the few who voted against the passage of the war resolution. He was one of Woodrow Wilson's "wilful men."

But he stuck grimly to his ideals and his beliefs. He never opposed successful prosecution of the war, once America was in it, but he believed our entrance was a mistake, and he said so, boldly, definantly and whenever the opportunity offered.

The incident that brought about the expulsion resolution in the senate was a speech at St. Paul, which he delivered without manuscript. He spoke about the war, and he claimed to his dying day that his speech was misquoted. At any rate some of his colleagues in the senate, notably Kellogg (R.), of Minnesota, whose election he had opposed, who had watched with growing anger La Follette's criticism of America's war effort, sponsored the movement to expel him from the senate for disloyalty to the nation.

Aided by Penrose.

For a time it looked like his enemies might accomplish their purpose, but in the end it was Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who saved him.

The Democrats, smarting under his attacks on Wilson, were for ousting him forthwith. Some of his Republican enemies sympathized with them. But Penrose, the "boss," who was the direct antithesis of everything that La Follette stood for, grunted "No." Penrose liked La Follette. They seldom if ever were on the same side of a question, but there were few personal friendships in the senate as close as that between the fiery Wisconsin Progressive and the taciturn, reactionary Pennsylvania boss. They had a mutual respect for courage and ability.

tivate a spirit of friendship unless there is a feeling of tolerance," said the speaker. "Intolerance is like a boomerang—it always returns to its starting point."

"The man, who prefers to live alone is either a beast or a God. Friendship is the flower of ethics and the root of politics. We are what we are because of the influence back three or four generations.

"Kiwanianis teaches one to have confidence in his fellow man. We cannot have frfendship unless we have confidence. It is far better to be deceived by humanity than to lose confidence in all men.

"We would have a broad vision—to look into the future—extend your no vision, people perish. If your horizon is limited to East Liverpool alone, you soon will be lost. You must look into tehe future—extend your vision to prosper and to gain.

"Like that of other organizations of this kind, Kiwanis ideal is service. The thing that holds a group of men such as this together is service."

Ex-husband Must Pay Alimony Altho Ex-wife is Married

NEW YORK, June 18.—The contention that a former husband is liable for alimony to his ex-wife even though she be remarried, was upheld today in the verdict by a Queens county jury to Mrs. Stanley Eichelberger, former wife of John L. Dodge, millionaire pill manufacturer, of unpaid alimony amounting to $63,855.79.

Mrs. Eichelberger, who lives in Los Angeles, Cal., divorced Dodge in 1912 and remarried him the same year. She later obtained another divorce and maintained he agreed to give her $12,000 a year alimony, together with two estates, one near Lexington, Ky., and the other near Groveton, Ga. In 1917 she married Sanley Eichelberger, wealthy mining engineer, of Denver, Col.

Gilbert, of England, defeated Ray Cases, of San Francisco, in the deciding singles match, 9 to 7, 9 to 7 and 6 to 3. REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 17.—Speculative activity centered around the Pierce Arrow motor stocks and a small number of the utility and specialty stocks in the early trading today. Rumors that Mack Trucks was negotiating for the truck business of the Pierce-Arrow company and that back dividends on the preferred would be satisfactorily adjusted led to enthusiastic buying of the stocks immediately after the opening. When the common moved up nearly 2 points, the prior preferred, which is exchangeable at five shares of common for one of preferred, advanced 8 points to 152½. The preferred gained 2 points at 85.

Oil stocks led in activity in this period and prices were generally inclined to higher levels. Standaard Oil of New Jersey was an early leader in the rally in oil stocks, and fractional gains were scored by Mid-continent, Phillips, Marland, Pan American, Royal Dutch, Pure Oil, Skelly, etc. Independent oil and gas, which led an enthusiastic upward movement last week, lost nearly 2 points.

Between the Devil and the Deep Sea

Consider, for a moment, the plight of the contractors:

On the one hand, they have the striking carpenters, who refuse to accept the old scale, refuse to consider arbitration, refuse to do anything toward settlement of the dispute and who now pack up, in some numbers, and go away to work elsewhere.

On the other hand, the contractors have their customers, whose construction work has already been held up for one and two-thirds months of the most valuable building time of the year, who need their buildings and who naturally want them.

The contractors feel they are practically compelled to go out and get other carpenters who will work. What else can they do? Things are the same in the contracting business as in any other business or as they are in life itself; if your customer or your employer want you to do something and you won't do it or if you say you can't do it, the customer or the employer is very apt to find somebody who will do it, pretty quickly.

The contractors have done everything they can. With a little help from the other side, they might have worked this out. Now they can do nothing but go out and get their customers' work done.

NAVY FIGURES SUN'S VAGARIES

Eclipses for Years to Come Scheduled by Scientists.

Washington.—Prolonged study of the vagaries of the sun and the moon has enabled scientists of the United States naval observatory here to work out their eclipses for the next three years. Under the direction of Capt. W. S. Eichelberger, U. S. N., they now are starting on the 1929 eclipses.

An annual eclipse of the sun—an eclipse where the rim of the sun shows outside of the eclipsed area—is forecast for July 20-21, this year, but will be invisible in the United States. A partial eclipse of the moon is due August 4, being more or less visible in the eastern states and wholly visible on the Pacific coast.

There will be no eclipse of the moon next year, but there will be a total eclipse of the sun January 14, 1926. It will be visible only from Africa to the Indian ocean, and the naval observatory will send a party from here to Sumatra to observe it.

An annular eclipse of the sun will be visible July 9-10, 1926, in the central Pacific ocean, and as a partial in northern Australia, the eastern edge of Asia, the United States and Mexico.

In 1927 there will be five eclipses—three of the sun and two of the moon. Seven eclipses in a year is the maximum, five of the sun and two of the moon, and the least number in a twelve-month is two, both of the sun, as will be the case in 1926.

An annular solar eclipse, visible in the southern Pacific, will occur January 3, 1927. A total of the sun, June 29, will be visible in Europe, appearing as a near total at Nome, Alaska. Another total of the moon in 1927 will take place December 8, visible generally in the Pacific ocean and in the northern part of North America. A partial eclipse of the sun will occur December 24.

Another heavenly phenomenon will be seen in 1927 in the transit of Mercury, which will appear as a dot on the sun. On November 10 the transit will take place, visible generally in the Pacific ocean, Australia and Asia, except in the northern and western portions. It will be visible at Honolulu, Manila and Samoa.

In 1928 three of the sun and two of the moon will be the order of eclipses. Captain Eichelberger considers the total solar eclipse of May 19, 1928, will be a curious one, only part of the resulting shadow falling on the earth, appearing as a piece on the south of Africa and the southern part of South America. A total of the moon, June 3, will be visible in the western parts of North and South America, the Pacific ocean, Australia and the eastern border of Asia. Partial solar eclipses will occur June 17 and November 12, a total of the moon transpiring November 27, visible in the western hemisphere.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE WILL FIND HAVEN OF SOLITUDE AT SUMMER RETREAT; WILL DEVOTE VACATION TO READING

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, June 18. — President Coolidge is planning to spend the summer with the great men of American history.

A friend, curious as to how a man not fond of golf and surf bathing would spend a summer in one of the most fashionable resorts along the Atlantic coastline, recently asked the president what he intended to do during his vacation at Swampscott, Massachusetts, where the summer White House" is to be established.

Mr. Coolidge is said to have replied smilingly: "There are a number of biographies of great American lives with which I have never had the time to become adequately familiar. I imagine you will find me striking up a more intimate acquaintance with those men during many of my leisure moments."

Other forms of recreation besides perusal of the histories of statesmen of the past, however, are holding out alluring charms for the president. Chief among them is the blessing of solitude and quiet—a recreation particularly enjoyable to the singularly retiring Mr. Coolidge.

Ideal Location.

"White Court," the summer estate of Frank W. Stearns, is so admirably situated as to afford the president far more privacy than he can command even in the sanctity of his private study in the White House. The equivalent of more than two city blocks from the public highway, connected thereto by a private road, its spacious grounds shut off from adjoining property by an encircling wall, "White Court" offers a perfect retreat from the outside world. None but those the president desires to see may gain ingress.

In addition to the natural inaccessibility of the summer White House, additional measures have been planned to assure presidential seclusion. About the grounds, in addition to the inevitable network of secret service operatives, will be stationed the presidential guard from the U. S. S. Mayflower—stalwart marines, especially picked for their physique and ability. Night and day, the inquisitive tourist, the aspiring local slimber, the political and the unwelcome official must run the gauntlet of this double cordon.

Anchored in the bay off "White Court" will be the Mayflower, presidential playtoy de luxe, seaworthy and eminently manned for pleasure cruises up and down the New England coast line. In the garages will be the White House automobiles, especially transported from Washington for the pleasure of the president. In the stables are well-groomed riding horses should the executive desire to avail himself of the sport from which he once got much enjoyment.

Other Recreations.

Reading, resting, yachting, motoring, riding, thus will the president spend his two months at the seashore of the state he once governed. These will be his recreations—when he is not working. For no president may absent himself from Washington for 60 days and remain absolutely free of the duties of office.

Accompanying Mr. Coolidge to Swampscott will be a sizable portion of the staff of the executive offices in the capital. Just three miles away, in Lynne, they will be established in a seven-room suite of offices—stenographers, clerks, telegraph operators, telephone operators and messengers, all under the personal supervision of Secretary to the President Everett Sanders. It is not unlikely that after the first week or so of his vacation, Mr. Coolidge will spend at least an hour a day in the temporary executive offices himself, perusing mail, signing letters and official documents, and receiving really important callers.

But one adjunct of the White House staff will be left behind. They are the social secretaries. Formal receptions, teas and at-homes will be left behind in Washington as part of the tedium from which the White House couple hope to escape. Such entertaining and receiving as is done will be of the informal nature, including only those old and loved friends whom it will be a pleasure to meet with again.

Society Abustle.

Society, however, continues to make its summer plans with proximity to the summer White House a dominating factor. Old and magnificent estates along the North Shore, tenantless for many past summers, will be thrown open this month. Real estate has boomed in almost Florida fashion and hotel proprietors are gleefully looking forward to a most prosperous season with rooms at a premium. The "codfish aristocrary" is joining hands with the blue books of Washington, New York and Philadelphia, to give Swampscott and its environs a terrific rush during the hot months of 1925.

And, to add a cosmopolitan atmosphere, the flags of at least four foreign embassies and legations will be in evidence around "White Court." Baron Von Maltzen, the new German ambassador, is esteablishing a summer embassy at Magnolia. Juniper Hill, Beverly Farms, will be the site of the Italian embassy for several months with the ambassador, Baron Iacomo de Martino and his family at hand. Although Sir Esme Howard and his family will summer in Switzerland, attaches of the British embassy are moving, as usual, to Manchester, while the Siamese legation will again locate at Bass Rocks. Other members of the diplomatic corps, no doubt, will follow suit.

Invited By Stearns.

The establishment of the Coolidge retinue on the North Shore will mark the first removal from Washington of the seat of the executive branch of the government since 1916. In that year Woodrow Wilson spent his last summer before American entry into the World war at the now famous "Shadow Lawn," near Deal, New Jersey. It will be the second time in the present century, however, that the Bay state has become the temporary site of the White House, Chief Justice William Howard Taft, when president, spent the majority of his summers at Beverly.

LOOK FOR THE RED WHEEL

Unless the Regulator has a RED WHEEL it is NOT DIRECT ACTION

Facts about the Direct Action Canning Method

WITH the Direct Action Oven Canning Method the material to be canned is packed cold in ordinary glass jar, which are then filled with boiling water or syrup and placed in the oven for a given period of time at an exact temperature.

Canning in the Lorain Self-regulating Oven of a Direct Action Gas Range is easy, economical and efficient. Easy, because it requires no standing, watching over a hot stove, no heavy lifting, no worry over "boiling point" or "steam pressure". Economical, because there is no expensive canning equipment to buy, no waste of gas, no fruit wasted on kettles and ladles—it's all kept in the jars. Efficient, because fruits and tomatoes canned by the Direct Action Method keep their color, form and flavor.

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

The Direct Action oven can be increased in capacity fifty per cent, by raising the partition between the oven and the broiler, throwing the two compartments together. This "Elastic" Oven is an exclusive feature of Direct Action Ranges. It gives you all the economy of a small oven for ordinary use, and the convenience of a large oven for canning, Whole Meal Cooking or big bakings. Direct Action Ranges save gas. You can put your baking in the oven before you light the gas, because no pre-heating is necessary.

Vacation Bible School

The Daily Vacation Bible school, launched successfully here a few years ago, will open for the summer term Monday morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church, with at least three churches sponsoring it.

Besides the Methodist Episcopal congregation, the First United Presbyterian and the First Methodist Protestant churches have pledged their co-operation in training the child in character, teaching respect for the home and church and building in civic pride and service. The First Baptist and First Presbyterian churches are expected to join in the movement.

And another important purpose of the Bible school is to counteract influences to which a child is subject when the restraint of the nine-month term in the public school is removed. In the Bible school they are taught studies of benefit, while diversions in the form of hikes, picnics, etc., are offered as a means of maintaining the interest of the pupils.

It is a movement that is certain to make better citizens of Young America.

"Abolish The Air"

A British newspaper quotes Sir Hugh Trenchard, air chief marshal of Great Britain, as follows:

"I do not want you to think that I look upon the air as a blessing altogether. I feel that all the good it will do in civil life cannot balance the harm that may be done in war by it and, if I had the casting vote, I would say abolish the air.

"But nothing you can do or say will stop all the benefits of aviation or all the horrors of it."

This is a grim statement from a military man with great faith in the efficacy of his particular branch of the service—aviation. Other experts on war and the weapons of war have had similar things to say about the possibilities of war-making and wholesale destruction and slaughter from the air. To all who are convinced that war can ever be abolished except by the annihilation of the human race, the only escape from the terrors of the air seems to lie in abolishing aviation and giving up all the good it promises a peaceful civilization.

To others with a little more hope in their souls these facts about air warfare suggest the advisability of increasing every effort to abolish war. It is a staggering task, but it is too soon to call it an impossible one.

Fifty Years of Murder

A county prosecutor, gathering murder figures for guidance in his own criminal policy, finds that there have been 300,000 persons murdered in this country in the last half-century, and that the average in recent years has been about 10,000 a year.

Here is an army of slaughtered citizens. It appears that there have been four persons slaughtered by their fellow-countrymen to every soldier killed in war by foreign enemies.

It is a shocking revelation. Yet it is doubtful whether it will shed any new light on the murder problem or suggest any new solution.

Shall murder be punished more severely, or less severely? All the study and analysis of this question seem to bring no generally convincing answer. There are strong arguments for and against capital punishment, but not decisive ones on either side.

There does seem to be a growing feeling that the murderer's mind is usually a sick mind, and that murder cases therefore are likely to be pathological as much as criminal. But the science of "ministering to a mind diseased" is still in its infancy. It takes a remarkably gifted psychologist to take a killer's mind to pieces and tell what part of his criminal deed was caused by irresponsible weakness or inherited defect and what by deliberate and responsible choice.

We are not likely to solve this criminology problem until the twin sciences of mind and morals are far more advanced than they are now. Pending such progress, a more general effort for peace and human brotherhood at home and abroad, should help to modify the killing spirit.

Beating The Doctor

A wealthy farmer of Tamora, Neb., needed an operation that would have cost him perhaps $50. He didn't want to spend the money, but he wanted to get rid of the tumor. So he proceeded to cut it out himself.

That took a great deal of self-confidence. It took still more courage. Cutting one's own nails is about as far as the ordinary person cares to go in the way of self-amputation. Give all credit to that old farmer for sheer pluck.

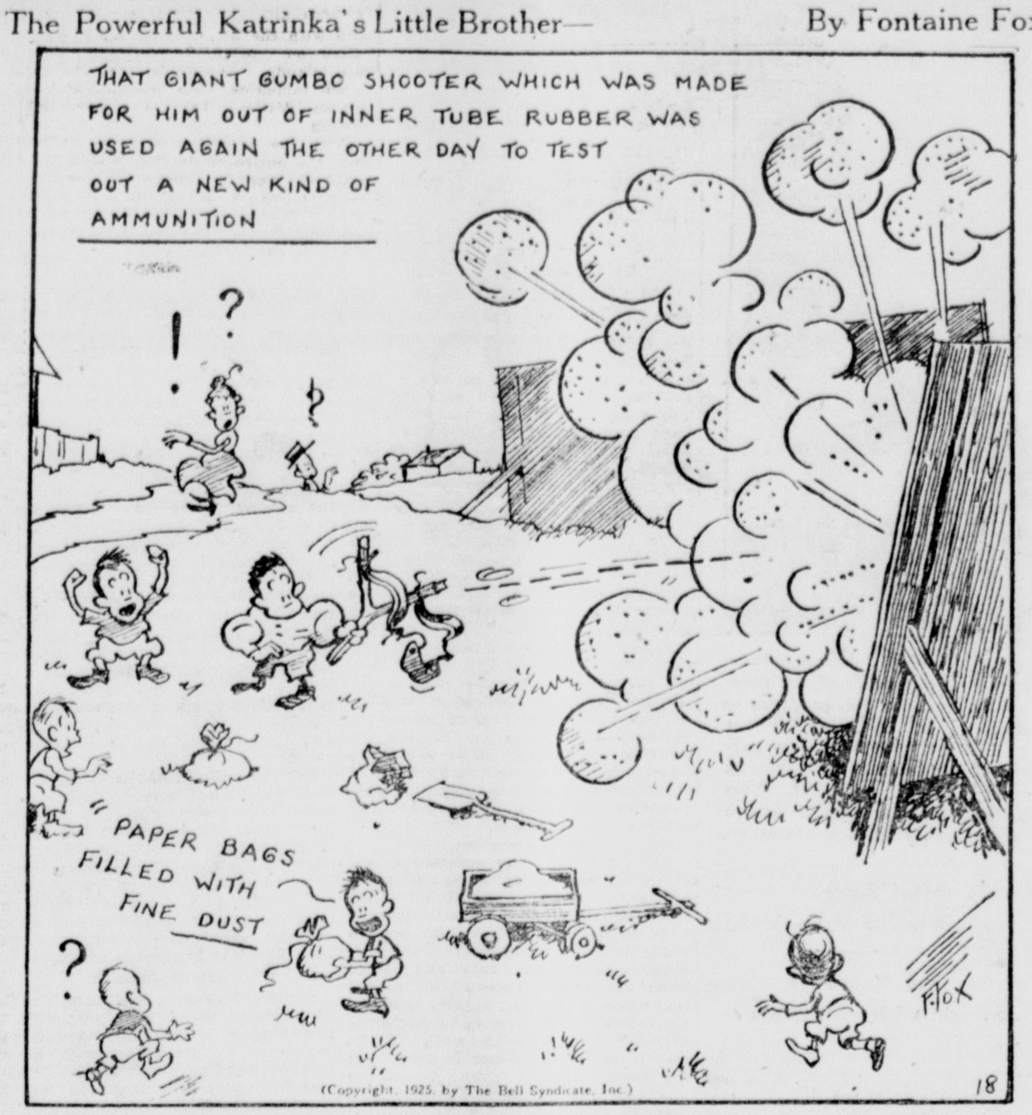

But the pluck was misapplied and wasted. Naturally enough, after his amateurish operation, the wound became infected. As a result, he died. He would better have given his whole farm to a good surgeon.

"Beating the doctor" is a practice all too common, even in this age of spreading knowledge regarding hygiene and surgery. And almost invariably the stingy or egotistic patient ends by beating himself.

A good many "radicals" are mistaken for dynamite bombs when they're only wind bags.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 18.—The swimming pool party is not merely a jest of the comic weekly. Two have been held this summer—one in town and the other at a cloistered Long Island villa. Each was a dinner with tables arranged around edges of the pools.

Guests donned their bathing habiliments after arriving and splashed around in the pool while cocktails were served. After drying out a bit they were served with a course dinner. And after cigarets they repaired to the pool again where butlers in swimming togs served cordials.

The invitation to one mere gave the name of the host, a bachelor, and said "Aquatic Soiree — Bring your bathing suit!" Such innovations are of course welcomed by the blase of Mayfair but the one on Long Island almost resulted in a backfire of scandal.

So it is presumed aquatic dinners will not be popular. One of the ladies, it appears, became slightly squiffed and although she could not swim the idea grew that if Steve Brody took a chance from Brooklyn Bridge she could from the rise of a silly three foot marble slab.

She did in water over her head when a sober butler — literally and figuratively—rescued her just as she was nearing the pulmotor stage. She will now confine her Annette Kellerman aspirations to the bathtub. But swimming pool idea will not die.

Very few private homes are being built these days without an elaborate pool. A new apartment house advertises they have two 16-room apartments with a private swimming pool in each. The rent, by the way, is only $32,000 a year. Just a mere splash!

Young nobs have at last found something new in shirts. Colored ones with collars to match have had a long reign and will likely continue popular, but a new note has slipped in. It is the heavy lumberjack shirt with soft rolling attached collar and big squares of various hues. I saw one on the avenue. The wearer also had low shoes of black and tan squares. That, as Picadilly would say, is almost "getting at one."

Just as the Bowery girls imitate their more fortunate sisters uptown so do Bowery hotels. The Bowery has lodging houses named Plaza Chatham, Savoy, Waldorf, Majestic and Astor. These are the dim-lit havens, in most instances, that the Bowery knows as "flop joints."

A New Yorker was talked out of the idea of investing $5,000 in "Abie's Irish Rose" when it looked as though it was destined for the gloom of a theatrical warehouse. He had the check made out and everything. That investment would have netted him a cool million up to this writing. (I wonder why we call a million cool? It would likely burn up most of us.)

My sympathy for the husband so easily swayed in his theatrical venture is keen. I was talked out of my own hat in a hotel checking room the other noon and my mail is convincing proof that I am on the "sucker list" of every chimerical scheme hatched in Wall street. Bright young men who phone me they are "putting their propostion only in the hands of a carefully selected list of prominent men" receive my most courteous attention.

Ten criminals corraled for a trip to Sing Sing were asked a list of questions. All but two admitted using hard liquor, four using narcotics, five said they had at various times taken money from women, not one had written to relatives in years, but all admitted they had at some time or other written anonymous letters.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Tipless Hotel

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—For some time there has been much discussion and study of the tipping system in hotels. At least one hotel has found it is possible to operate without tipping, and, furthermore, the employes seem to like it. It is the Grace Dodge Hotel in this city.

This hotel was planned and construction begun during the World war. It was a measure to help solve the great housing problem then existing in Washington. However, before it could be completed the armistice had been signed and the necessity for it no longer was imperative. It was decided to go ahead with it and run it on a commercial basis.

The Grace Dodge has been open for four years and during that period many changes have been made in its method of operation. Originally it was planned that only women would be accommodated, the male sex to be represented only by boys under the age of twelve. It was found that many of the guests had brothers, fathers and husbands, and wished to have them stay in the same hotel. Therefore two floors have been opened to men.

Also the original plan was to have a majority of single rooms so as to accommodate the greatest possible number of girls. There were only a few double rooms with private baths. It was thought that most of the girls would prefer showers. Now it has been found that a large number of people want double rooms with baths of the old fashioned tub variety. To meet this demand, partitions in all of the rooms on the front are being torn out and large, airy double rooms with baths are being made.

All of this might of course be happening in any hotel, but the management of the hotel is unique. In the first place the head of every department, except the chief engineer, is a woman. The manager is Miss Mary Lindsley, a woman endowed with a charming personality and an understanding of human nature. She is an advocate of economic independence and the employes of the hotel are managed with this idea always in view.

Employes Pay Their Way

Unlike most hotels food and quarters are not given to any employe from the manager to the most obscure scrub woman. Each pays their own way. Those who live in the hotel pay room rent as any guest does, and every employe pays for her food purchased in the cafeteria which has been established for employes. Of course no attempt is made to realize a profit on the food sold employes. They are given a wholesale rate.

Miss Lindsley believes that requiring all employes to pay for what they receive makes them more independent economically. Also it aids in teaching them to plan systematically the spending of their money. No employe is forced to eat at the hotel. Each may bring her lunch, or she may go outside to eat. She is absolutely independent.

No tipping is permitted. The hotel pays each employe a salary which is believed to be commensurate with the work she is doing. There is, however, a Christmas fund and any guest who wishes may contribute to this. On Christmas morning this money is divided equally among all employes. And apparently all are satisfied. Occasionally one is found who is not averse to accepting a tip, but she must either reform or be dismissed. Miss Lindsley estimates that there are at the present time about fifty employes who have been in the hotel since it opened, and a hundred who have been there over a year.

Each employe is given an annual vacation with pay. The vacation ranges from two to four weeks, depending upon the length of service. This is another incentive to continued service. The faithful employe feels that she will be rewarded accordingly. It gives the new employe something to strive for.

The manager has won the respect and loyalty of her entire staff. Each one takes great pride in her particular job and likes to feel that she is doing her share toward carrying out the principles and ideals upon which the hotel is operated. Miss Lindsley takes a personal interest in the employes and the colored workers, especially like to feel that they belong to her. When no guest is about they revert to the old southern custom of calling her "Miss Mary." They know that she is fair and will treat them with understanding.

During the recent hot spell Miss Lindsley overheard two of the colored employes quarreling. She said it was the first time she had ever heard a quarrel, although she didn't doubt that they probably had their disagreements when she wasn't around. Instead of demanding harshly that they be quiet, she asked what the trouble was. The girl complained, "Jo is picking on me." And Miss Lindsley realizing the heat was sufficient to make anyone irritable said, "Well, Susie, I think you had better go and take a shower. Cool yourself off and see if you don't feel better."

Helping College Girls

This hotel gives college girls an opportunity to obtain practical experience in doing institutional work, and the manager receives more requests than she can possibly fill.

But the employes are not the only beneficiaries of this unique hotel. The guests find that comfort and happiness is also the concern of the management. This is particularly true of mothers with young children. Any mother who wishes to come to Washington to sightsee or to shop may bring along the child and his clothes and the hotel will attend to the rest. They have nurses, toys, bath tubs equipped with bath tub toys and sterilizing facilities for everything the baby may need. The mother may go out with an easy mind, knowing that her child is receiving every attention.

Also there are special menus prepared for children. These have the approval of Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics. Miss Lindsley conceived this idea because of having overheard a mother in the dining room say one day to a small child, "Just wait a minute, dear, mother will find something for you to eat." It seemed wrong that with all the thought and care spent upon planning menus, none had been given to what a child might eat.

The Christmas parties at this hotel are becoming so popular that last year a number of former guests returned just to be present on that occasion. A stocking is hung on the door of each guest's room and filled with candy, fruit and a hotel calendar. There is a huge Christmas tree and on Christmas Eve there are carolers from local churches. Punch and cakes are served by the management and guests are urged to invite their friends.

Last year there were about 400 guests.

Christmas morning after breakfast the colored servants came into the dining room and sang carols. Then the Christmas tree fund was distributed and as the colored folks passed out of the room they hummed "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." It was most impressive and somehow touching. There were few dry eyes. A noted writer of children's stories who had taken the manager to task for expending so much time and effort on the entertainment for grownups, afterward apologized and said "I guess we are all just grownup children after all."

The Grace Dodge Hotel, it is claimed, proves two things—that a hotel can be operated efficiently and that it is possible to place a hotel staff on the same economic basis as the employes of any other kind of business.

Charles McIntyre, of Uniontown, attended the bridegroom.

Following the nuptial service, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. At the bridal table, covers were arranged for 10 guests. A large wedding cake centered the table, where a color scheme of pink and white was effectively carried out. Roses and sweetpeas were used elaborately.

Jack London Story, "Adventure," is Film Feature at Ceramic

Although it sounds like a song title or the name of a musical comedy, "The Bamboo Bed" is merely one of the unique properties used for the filming of Jack London's "Adventure," which Victor Fleming produced for Paramount.

The bed, which is constructed entirely of bamboo, is one of the few of its kind in the United States. The legs are made of large bamboo posts and the walls and sides consist of small wovenpieces.

In securing this rare piece of furniture, the Paramount property department was required to scour the entire city of Los Angeles before one could be found. The bed was discovered in a small second-hand store on the very outskirts of the city. Originally it had belonged to a family of Fijians who had shipped it to Los Angeles from the South Seas.

"Adventure" pictures in absorbing detail the stirring experiences of a fearless girl, who goes into partnership with the owner of a copra plantation on one of the savage South Sea islands. A notable cast is featured, including Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton.

With the exception of a few interiors, the entire production was photographed against gorgeous tropical backgrounds on one of the islands of the Pacific, and reproduces with amazing fidelity the life and atmosphere of the South Seas.

CHARM OF WOMEN DEPENDS UPON VITAL GLANDS

Science has found that a deficiency in certain glands in women results in mental sluggishness, irritability, despondency, forgetfulness and fatigue, tendency to sleep a great deal and morning weariness. Even the brilliancy and luster of the hair and the delicate beauty and softness of the skin are impaired if the glands do not function properly.

According to leading authorities the benefits of gland transplantation may be had without an operation; gland substance can be taken internally in tablet form.

"MADE IN THE HOME MADE WAY"

From any fruit —

Delicious Jams and Jellies every time

OH, it's so easy now! Before, no matter how experienced you were, you could never be sure—sometimes jelly and jam just didn't turn out. No amount of care seemed to positively safeguard you.

But you never have a failure with Certo—no desperate re-boiling—the most difficult fruits jell perfectly. For Certo is the substance in fruit that makes it jell—fruit can't jell without it.

This jelly-making element is completely lacking in some fruits, others have only a little, and even in the fruits that naturally contain most of it, it gradually diminishes as they ripen. But now, because Certo itself supplies the all-important jelly-making property, you can make your jam and jelly of the richest ripe fruits—those with the finest flavor and loveliest color. You can even use fruits that have in themselves no jelly-making property.

So easy — so quick — no juice and flavor boil away

Less than 15 minutes from fruit to jam or jelly! Certo means that just one minute's active boil is needed. No more standing stirring over a hot stove—no long boiling that reduces the amount of your jelly—no loss in steam of flavor, color and juice.

Clear, sparkling, firm, yet tender—every glass you make with Certo.

Certo's brief boil saves you all the fruit that used to boil away. When you count up the cost you will find that with Certo you have half again as many glasses as you ever got from that much fruit. Millions of housewives now use Certo all the time. Your grocer has Certo. Order a bottle right away. Douglas - Pectin Corp., Granite Building, Rochester, New York.

Weather Control May Be Achieved Via Radio Means

Scientists Believe Ether Waves May Regulate Atmospheric Changes.

WASHINGTON, June — Manufacture of weather for indoor and outdoor consumption may become among the greatest achievements of science.

"Weather control is becoming an accomplishment of engineering that will apply to human welfare in summer as in winter, in the south as in the north," the Bureau of Standards declared in describing methods of indoor heating and atmospheric control.

"There is a growing recognition of the importance of controlling the relative humidity of the air, not only in many manufacturing processes and in industrial plants, but also in the home, the office and the auditorium, where considerations of health and comfort are more and more demanding and receiving attention."

While the government studies apply only to "manufacturing of weather for indoor consumption," experts admitted that scientists are going in for outdoor weather control.

Radio an Agency.

Radio, whose miraculous development has led to the conclusion that its scope is almost limitless, may be the agency by which man in the future will make his own weather.

Scientists are studying the influence of the radio wave on the human body; whether or not it can be employed for healing purposes and if there is a probability that broadcasting will bring about a new development in the evolution of physical and mental man.

Experimenters have already hurled explosive shells into the air, hoping to induce rainfall. Other methods of weather control have been attempted by theorists. But it was declared that the use of broadcast electrical energy may become the panacea for blizzards, cyclones, droughts or periods of excessive rain.

Prevent Tornadoes.

Weather experts thought that a powerful radio station might be able to prevent tornadoes which recently wrought such havoc in the middle west by broadcasting certain electrical energy into the areas where the winds were developing.

Use of electrical waves to mobilize rain clouds over drought-mitten areas was another mentioned possibility. Operations of such a system would form one of its most serious economic depressions, would convert the western deserts into productive areas and increase the wealth of the United States by billions.

If experiments in aerial transmission of electrical energy are successful, government experts said, weather control by radio, incredible as it may seem, may yet become an accomplished fact.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions —these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

Weather Control May Be Achieved Via Radio Means

Scientists Believe Ether Waves May Regulate Atmospheric Changes.

WASHINGTON, June — Manufacture of weather for indoor and outdoor consumption may become among the greatest achievements of science.

"Weather control is becoming an accomplishment of engineering that will apply to human welfare in summer as in winter, in the south as in the north," the Bureau of Standards declared in describing methods of indoor heating and atmospheric control.

"There is a growing recognition of the importance of controlling the relative humidity of the air, not only in many manufacturing processes and in industrial plants, but also in the home, the office and the auditorium, where considerations of health and comfort are more and more demanding and receiving attention."

While the government studies apply only to "manufacturing of weather for indoor consumption," experts admitted that scientists are going in for outdoor weather control.

Radio an Agency.

Radio, whose miraculous development has led to the conclusion that its scope is almost limitless, may be the agency by which man in the future will make his own weather.

Scientists are studying the influence of the radio wave on the human body; whether or not it can be employed for healing purposes and if there is a probability that broadcasting will bring about a new development in the evolution of physical and mental man.

Experimenters have already hurled explosive shells into the air, hoping to induce rainfall. Other methods of weather control have been attempted by theorists. But it was declared that the use of broadcast electrical energy may become the panacea for blizzards, cyclones, droughts or periods of excessive rain.

Prevent Tornadoes.

Weather experts thought that a powerful radio station might be able to prevent tornadoes which recently wrought such havoc in the middle west by broadcasting certain electrical energy into the areas where the winds were developing.

Use of electrical waves to mobilize rain clouds over drought-mitten areas was another mentioned possibility. Operations of such a system would form one of its most serious economic depressions, would convert the western deserts into productive areas and increase the wealth of the United States by billions.

If experiments in aerial transmission of electrical energy are successful, government experts said, weather control by radio, incredible as it may seem, may yet become an accomplished fact.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

A Tense True Story of Everyday Life!

Tarnish!

The word rang in her ears, echoing on every side from the calls and trumpet blasts of the wild merrymakers. She had expected to be the happiest in all that happy throng, for the man she loved had just asked her to be his wife. And then an accident revealed the startling truth—tarnish—A picture that will sound the depths of your feelings and make you a truer sweetheart when you learn how this trusting girl solved her problem.

Things to Know Before Baby Comes

YOU may learn the probable date of baby's birth. What you should have and what baby will need. These and many other important things are fully explained in a wonderful booklet sent free to all expectant mothers.

This booklet also tells when and how to use "Mother's Friend"—the much talked about rubbing preparation which relaxes the muscles and prepares the way for a comfortable period during expectancy and for a more natural delivery at childbirth. "I think 'Mother's Friend' saved my life," wrote one enthusiastic mother. "I was sick not over fifteen minutes," declared another. You will find these signed letters, and many more, in the booklet which you will receive.

"Mother's Friend" has been used by three generations of expectant mothers. Get a bottle today and experience the wonderful effect "Mother's Friend" will give you!

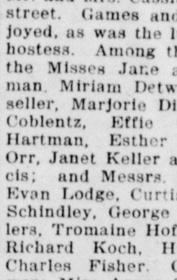

FREE BOOKLET

Write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. F-6, Atlanta, Ga., for free booklet (sent in plain envelope.) Full directions for using "Mother's Friend" will be found with each bottle. "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores.

WOMAN SO ILL WASHED DISHES SITTING DOWN

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

GRANDVIEW

What Is It?

DEATH OF JOHN E. McKENNA.

Death loves a shining mark. The Reaper cut down my venerable friend, John E. McKenna, of Franklin township, June the 10th, aged 87 years. He was ripe in years and in wisdom. He was born on the farm where he died, near Summitville, and his occupation was that of a farmer all his life. Some 56 years ago he married Mary Cavanaugh, who passed away in death in 1900. Of this marriage ten children were born, eight of whom are living, four boys and four girls. There are 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The writer has known the deceased for more than 50 years. He was a man of very strong character. He was not a highly educated man, but nature had given him a bright and active mind, so that his influence was felt by all his acquaintances and he was a leader in all civic affairs in his neighborhood. He was a devoted and active member of the Catholic church at Summitville. In fact he was one of the pillars of the church and one of its founders in the early days of Franklin township. He was an earnest friend of education and was an active member of the noted Silver Ridge Debating club in its balmy days. It was not the intellect alone he wanted improved and developed, but the soul, the spirit of man also. His religious convictions were strong and lasting. He was not bigoted in religious matters, but he believed firmly in the doctrine of Jefferson, that every person should have perfect freedom to worship his maker according to the dictates of his conscience.

The home life of deceased was a model. He loved his home and was devoted to his family. In his last will and testament he shows a fair and generous spirit. He divides his earthly belongings equally among his children. Peace to his memory.

Head of Morticians Says Family Should Have Three Children

CHICAGO — Every family in the United States must produce 3-1 children to maintain a stationary population without increase or decrease, according to Harry G. Samson, of the National Selected Morticians.

"Of 1,000 girls born today 788 will marry," Samson said. "This estimate is based on current mortality and marital rates. These 788 women must giveb irth to 1,000 daughters to replace the original 1,000.

"Of 1,000 boys born today only 742 will marry. These 742 must produce 1,000 sons.

Combining the figures, every 1,000 families must produce 1,268 daughters and 1,330 sons, or 2,618 children, if the population is to remain at a stationary level.

"But it must be considered that one marriage in every six produces no children. The burden of child bearing, therefore, must fall on the other five-sixths and those families must bring into the world an average, not of 2 6 but of 3.1 children."

A Spaniard believed to be 116 years old who died recently at San Vincente, had never seen an automobile or train.

CHRYSLER CAR IN FRONT RANK

Manufacturer Becomes Outstanding Figure in Motor Industry.

Since the name, Walter P. Chrysler, through the Chrysler car, first became known to the public, it has grown to a position of commanding importance in the automobile industry. Men competent to judge have since declared that at the rate he is going and the progress his organization is making, he is rapidly establishing himself as the outstanding new figure in the industry. These men go so far as to say that within two years his organization will be recognized as having achieved industrial accomplishments hitherto considered impossible in the manufacture and marketing of quality motor cars.

It is only to the public at large that Walter P. Chrysler is a new figure in the making and merchandising of motor cars. Within the industry he has been known more than a dozen years as one of its leading men. Since he assumed a position of outstanding importance in the nation's largest industry, nearly 2,000,000 cars have been built and sold under his leadership.

Today, at 50, those closest to him say that he and the organization he has gathered about him are only approaching the threshold of their greatest accomplishments. Recent visitors to the Chrysler plants in Detroit report that one of the most amazing happenings in connection with the building of that car is the personal interest taken in all stages of its manufacture by Mr. Chrysler himself.

It should be said here, to appreciate the singularity of the man, that the magnitude of his operations and interests is larger than that of any other American, with perhaps a half dozen or ten exceptions.

But visitors who have seen him spend hours at a time about the Chrysler plants are inclined to agree with those closest to him that the Chrysler car holds for him an affection second only to that of his family. Practically every visit he makes to the plants is the occasion for a personal check-up to see that the quality of the Chrysler car not only is maintained, but constantly improved.

His lieutenants insist that a considerable share of the tremendous success of the car has created for itself is due to his personal attitude.

Report Miners Working.

POMEROY, June.—Mine owners here claimed that the recent visit of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, has not stopped work in mines operating under the 1917 wage scale. They claimed that the next day after Lewis' speech more union miners appeared for work than ever before and said the tonnage of the mines, thus working, has increased.

LAUGHLIN PICNIC DATE SELECTED

Plans have practically been completed for the annual outing of the Homer Laughlin China company employes to be held at Cascade park, New Castle, Pa., Friday, August 7. Committee members worked hard to secure a Saturday date but this had to be abandoned due to the fact that the railroad company could not furnish trains on that day on account of so many week end excursions.

Tentative arrangements call for a diversified program with sport events being given a prominent place on the calendar.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St. Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of any one's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

East Liverpool druggists are my appointed agents in your city. If you live out of town I'll gladly send you free particulars.

Why Thin, Pale Girls Are Unpopular

It is a well-known fact that thin, pale or sallow, poorly-developed girls, with dark circles under the eyes, and who always appear tired and listless, do not attract friends. Yet in thousands of cases these conditions are due merely to the lack of pure, red blood, rich in health-giving iron. By simply getting sufficient iron into their blood, these girls may quickly have the blooming cheeks, ruddy lips and well-rounded forms that make other girls so attractive and so popular.

But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and not the old-fashioned liquid medicines or pills made from mineral iron that often injured the teeth and disturbed the stomach. Nuxated Iron contains organic iron, like the iron in your own blood. Try it for two weeks and notice the strength you gain. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

American Universities Are Heavily Endowed

Washington.—Million-dollar endowments are possessed by 121 American universities, according to figures recently compiled by the Department of the Interior through the Bureau of Education.

Most of these institutions are under private control. State universities as a rule are not heavily endowed, and only 18 of them are in the millionaire class so far as their productive endowments are concerned. Harvard university is the richest educational institution in the United States; its endowment is $53,031,769. Columbia is next, with $41,300,000, and Yale, Leland Stanford, Chicago, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Carnegie, Princeton, Rochester and Pennsylvania follow in the order named.

Harvard is first, too, in the value of buildings, grounds and equipment, for its plant is worth $22,800,000. Yale is a close second, with $21,080,690, and Columbia, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Leland Stanford follow in the list of private institutions.

University of Texas is the wealthiest state university in its endowment, for it has $11,013,028. California follows with $8,407,775; then Washington, Minnesota and Oklahoma, all of which have comfortable permanent funds. In value of property and equipment the University of California holds first place among state universities, with $17,782,539. Minnesota is next with $14,759,642, and Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin follow in close succession.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 7

The Advent of Tea to England

Tea was not used to any extent in England till about the middle of the seventeenth century, although knowledge of the wonderful qualities of the beverage had reached Europe as early as 1517. During the seventeenth century, all tea was imported from China and cost from $25.00 to $50.00 per pound. Not until 1836 did any tea reach England from India. In that year the first shipment was made from the now famous tea growing district of Assam. India today supplies fully half the world's tea requirements and provides some of the finest teas grown. The rich body of "SALADA" is due to the select India teas used in the blend.

WELLS, HASMANN LOSE TO PROS

Drop Exhibition Match to Hagen and Farrell.

J. M. Wells, of East Liverpool, and Eddie Hasmann, of Cleveland, playing against Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, star professionals, lost their match by a score of 6 and 5 yesterday afternoon at the Shaker Heights Country club, Cleveland.

Hagen and Farrell, playing a series of exhibition matches, defeated Bob Shave, of Grantwood, and Larry Nabholtz, of Cedarhurst, Cleveland's two pros who recently played in the national open at Worchester, Mass., 4 and 3, in the morning and came back in the afternoon and trimmed Wells and Hasmann. The matches were held as part of the sport entertainment for the Rotary club convention visitors.

Hagen came within an ace of breaking the course record. As it was he made the 18 holes in 66, equalling the record made by Grange Alves, Acacia club pro, in 1923.

Approximately 1,200 saw Hagen and Farrell take on the two amateurs in the afternoon.

Hagen proceeded to excel his effort of the first round, taking three birdies and playing the other six in par, thus going out in 32, without doubt the best ever recorded for the course. Farrell was two behind him while Hasmann turned in a 38 and Wells a 40. Both Wells and Hasmann got into trouble on the third and seventh holes, each taking a six each. The cards:

The play was much more even on the last nine when Hagen and Farrell each took a 34 and Wells and Hasmann each got a 37. Hagan had a birdie on the tenth and all but got an eagle, being one in one and just missing his first putt by an inch. All four got birdie fours on the fourteenth.

Holds Record Score For Course On Which Meet Will Be Staged

128 Will Qualify for Match Play in Eight Flights; Pro-amateur Best Ball Medal Play Carded for Monday Afternoon; Match Play in Championship Division Will Get Under Way on Wednesday Morning.

Joseph M. Wells, twice champion of Ohio amateur golfers, and present titleholder, playing over the course for which he holds the record, will defend his crown against the cream of Buckeye players in the twenty-second tournament of the Ohio Golf association which will start next Tuesday morning at the Portage Country club, Akron.

There will be eight flights of 16 each, making a total of 128 to qualify for match play. The pro-amateur best ball medal play event will be staged on Monday afternoon, preceding championship play.

The championship flight will include the 32 low scores in the qualifying round; the Ohio Golf association flight the losing 16 in championship flight; the president's flight the third sixteen; Portage Country club flight the fourth sixteen; the Fairlawn Heights Country club flight the fifth sixteen; the Silver Lake Country club flight the sixth sixteen; the Rosemont Country club flight the seventh sixteen; and the Akron district golf association flight the eighth sixteen.

Prizes will include the championship cup, cup for runner-up, medal for low qualifying score, prize for winner and runner-up in each flight; and special prizes for driving, putting and four-man team in the qualifying round.

The pro-amateur event will start at 12:30 Monday afternoon. At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning the qualifying round in championship play will start.

The annual banquet and business meeting of the association will be held on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the club house.

The championship flight will lead off again on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, followed by the others. The third round of the championship flight and second round play in the other flights are scheduled for Thursday. The start of the finals in all flights is carded for Friday.

The new Portage course was designed and built by W. B. Langford in 1917 but on account of the war was not opened for play until two years later. The location is practically the same as that of the original nine hole course execept that through the acquisition of additional forest land, it was possible to add tremendously to the attractiveness of the whole.

The ground is slightly rolling and about half of the holes are cut through heavy woods. From a physical point the course is a very easy one to play and 36 holes a day is no hardship, even in hot weather.

The design and trapping of the green puts a premium on accurate work and the medium length hitter may always hope to stay in the running against a slugging opponent who is slightly off in his direction.

The course record of 67 is held by Joe Wells and was made in competition with Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Emmet French. It was a remarkable round with four "twos" on the card. Vardan, Ray, Mitchel and Duncan have all had their try but somehow or other Portage usually costs a bad hole or two.

TRY OUT SPEED ON MOTORCYCLES

ALTOONA, Pa., June 18. — Fifty thousand cheering spectators who witnessed the spectacular speed duel here at the famous Altoona speedway last Saturday, when Peter DePaolo and Tommy Milton battled for victory in the field of 17 cars of the automobile classic, on July Fourth will again see one of the supreme contests of the speed world when the leading motorcycle racers of the world meet in the national championship on the big bowl here.

With a taste of the thrills of extreme speed on the giant mile-and-a-quarter oval, patrons at the track here from all states all over the east-earn part of the country have requested tickets for the big Independence day classic of the two-wheel mounts, the first revival of this sensational sport since the old Sheepshead Bay course.

With thousands of motorists already making arrangements to attend, the management reported today that they had been requested to make provisions for close to 15,000 motorcyclists alone. These motorcycle clubs from all parts of the United States have made preparations for coming, some of them being forced to ride six days to reach here. Clubs from New Orleans, Dallas, Denver, DesMoines and others equally as far are coming 300 strong each.

Blake not only pitched laudable ball but smote a double in the ninth that gave the Cubs a 5 to 4 verdict over the Phillies.

Net King Nearing End of His Reign, Says Richards

Youthful Star Thinks Tilden's Dominance Over Tennis World is on the Wane.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, June 18.—"I'll beat Tilden as many times this season as he beats me. And one of those times might just as readily come in the national singles as in some obscure invitation tournament."

Vincent Richards declared himself in this manner today in predicting that the 1925 season in lawn tennis will find the almost perennial dominance of William T. Tilden on the wane. He doesn't think Tilden will be champion at the end of the current season.

The writer asked him how he contrived to get that way.

The reply was that he considered Tilden had just edged a step beyond the peak of ability that he knew as champion during the last five years. In brief, that Tilden has slipped.

"It shows in the lack of consistency," Richards said. "He is unbeatable one day and mediocre the next. The Tilden who beat everybody in other seasons was always good If he has one of those bad days at any time during the national championships, he won't even reach the final round."

Richards at this point disclaimed any attempt to act as his own cheer leader.

"I'm not speaking for myself alone," he declared "I'm merely generalizing. Billy Johnston, Dick Williams or some of the newer stars may furnish the man to beat Tilden. Then again, no one may beat him. I merely state that his title is in greater danger now than at anytime since he first gained it in 1920.

"Tilden must beat five good men in a row to win the championship again. In his present form, he doesn't seem capable of maintaining his speed for five successive days."

Asked if he would count on Tilden having a bad day in the event the champion did work his way into the finals, Richards hastened forward with an emphatic negative.

"Tilden is the greatest 'money' player the game ever knew," said he. "If he gets as far as the finals, the chances are very good that he will rise to the emergency."

Tagging The Bases

The Tigers romped like happy children over the corpus delicti of the Yankees, 19 to 1, and a fine time was had by all. In the sixth, fourteen Tigers batted and eleven scored before a man was retired, thirteen scoring in all. Dauss must have been paying an election bet. He held the Yanks to four hits.

Roush's single in the first inning off Bentley sent the Giants to their sixth straight defeat and the Reds to their eleventh victory in the last twelve games. Score 1 to 0. Luque was very niggardly. The Giants' lead was cut thereby to 1½ games.

Again running amuck against rival pitching the Pirates smote Grimes on his salivary gland and gained an 8 to 3 decision over the Dodgers.

Harris pitched the Indians silly and stepped out of character with three hits, the Athletics beating the Indians, 10 to 3. Smith was socked for sixteen hits in the last six innings.

The two Sox divided a double header, Chicago winning the first, 5 to 3, on Faber's pitching, and Boston the second, 7 to 6, on some enthusiastic hitting in the last two innings.

GREYS LAND TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

Hamilton English's Laughlin Greys have knocked over two opponents already this week and will tackle the third on Saturday afternoon.

The Greys disposed of the Cardinals at Maplewood, 8 to 5, on Monday evening, and turned back the Uniques, of the Church league, 9 to 2, on last evening at Columbian park. Verne Bailey pitched a three-hit game.

On Saturday afternoon at 3:15, at Newell, the Greys will clash with the Boyce M. E., of the church loop.

HOPES TO GET JONES' TITLE

Von Elm at Top Form for Amateur Play in Pittsburgh.

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—George Von Elm, 23-year-old Los Angeles star amateur golfer, who parts his hair in the middle but halves his holes with none, is at the peak of form this season.

Von Elm's consuming ambition is to wrest the amateur title from Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, at the national amateur tourney in Pittsburgh in September, and his critics believe his game this summer forecasts a win for the westerner.

Already this year Von Elm has won three tourneys.

Playing steady, consistent golf, he captured the Southern California open, the Southern California amateur championship and the Northern California open championship. He is a former Pacific Northwest title holder and Trans-Mississippi champion.

Averages 72.

This year Von Elm has not shot a course in over a 75 score and has averaged 72.

Von Elm is regarded by critics as the leading westerner and one of the few perfect types of the mentally and physically perfect player.

The Angeleno never hesitates in his game.

He picks his clubs quickly and once a club is drawn from the bag it stays out.

He steps swiftly to the ball and swings fast. Recently he played the Rancho course here with a record 64 score in less than an hour and a half Ordinarily players require three hours for the Rancho course.

Von Elm walks swiftly while playing golf. This he believes helps to keep him in condition.

Trains Constantly.

The California star often hits the links at 5 o'clock in the morning. Almost all his playing is done early in the day and is always followed by a rubdown. He trains almost as earnestly as a pugilist.

Von Elm does not drink or smoke and follows a careful meal program.

To drink or eat too much or too plentifully of rich food has a decided effect on his game, the youthful star claims.

Von Elm is playing his irons with unusual crispness this season.

His friends figure this is his supreme year and that he will give Jones and other stars an extremely hard battle, if he does not come through with the amateur honors.

Herewith is solution to Puzzle No. 206.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Flies Enjoy Gas Test, Professor Almost Dies

London.—The efforts of a brilliant young scientist to discover a poison gas powerful enough to destroy flies nearly had fatal effects—for the scientist. The flies seemed to like the particular gas he tried, and were none the worse for the experience, but it was touch and go for the experimentor.

The scientific world and the general public are partly amused, partly alarmed, over the incident, which occurred at the famous national research institute at South Kensington, for the rash scientist confessed that the gas he was experimenting with was sufficiently potent to lay the whole human population of London dead in the street, or in their homes, if disseminated in large enough quantities. But it didn't worry the flies.

The gas is called colloquially "Lewisite"—its official name is "monaphenyldechlorasine," and according to experts it was a good thing for the Germans that they gave up the world war, November, 1918, because the allies were going to "issue" it to them as a war draught early in 1919. It is said to be based on an American preparation.

Harold Maxwell Lefroy, the hero of the incident, is professor of entomology at the Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, and although only forty-eight, he has a great reputation among European scientists.

By the use of a newly perfected machine 1,000 fountain pen barrels are turned out every minute.

Steeplejack Lives Through Tornado on 125-Foot Tower

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June.—Al Johnson, professional steeplejack, from California, clung like a leach to the top of the 125-foot water tower at the Stockyards here during a recent near tornado that swept this city, injuring fourteen persons and causing a property loss of about $250,.

For five minutes the wind blew with a velocity of ninety-five miles an hour. Johnson held on to his precarious perch, although his cap blew off and his shirt-tails were whipped out.

"First time I was ever afraid in my life," was the way Johnson described his experience after the squall subsided.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

We recommend Othine Complexion Soap for use with Othine, also as a shampoo—it's wonderful for bobbed hair—25c a cake at all drug or department stores or by mail. Othine Laboratories, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.
